LADY DIANA MOSLEY

BRITISH ARREST WIFE OF FASCIST LEADER

LONDON, June 29 (AP)—Lady Diana Mosley, wife of Sir Oswald Mosley and sister of Unity Freeman-Mitford, was arrested this afternoon at her home, Savetay Farm, Denham, Buckinghamshire. Plainclothes men detained Lady Diana under defense regulations. Her husband, Sir Oswald, was jailed May 23. Sir Oswald is the leader of British fascists. Miss Unity Freeman-Mitford is an admirer of Adolf Hitler, she returned to England from Munich last January, suffering from a bullet wound in her neck. How she was wounded never was publicly explained.

BALBO, ITALY'S IDOL, KILLED IN AIR BATTLE

ROME, June 29 (INS)—Death of Marshal Italo Balbo in the course of an air battle between Italian and British planes over Tobruk, Libya, was announced in an extraordinary military bulletin today.

HUNGARY MASSES TROOPS—Hungarian troops (as above) today were massed along the Rumanian frontier . . . and official quarters stated they would continue across the border—with the full support of Germany and Italy—if the Russian army keeps moving toward the Carparthian Mountains.

GEN. ITALO BALBO
Italian Air Ace Killed

Italy's famous flying statesman, frequently mentioned as a possible successor to Premier Mussolini, was killed with all members of his crew when his powerful fighting plane crashed in flames.

Balbo, military governor of Libya, temporarily gave up his administrative duties to resume service with the air force when Italy declared war on Britain and France on June 10. He was a former Italian air minister.

The brief official statement said:

"During June 28, while flying over Tobruk during enemy bombing action, the airplane piloted by Marshal Italo Balbo fell in flames.

"Signor Balbo and members of his crew were killed.

"The flags of Italy's armed forces have been lowered in sign of homage and high honor to the memory of Marshal Balbo, Alpine volunteer in the World War, quadrumvir of the revolution, air spanner of the ocean and marshal of the air, who fell at his post in combat."

Balbo's Flight to U. S. Made Duce Fear Him

By the Associated Press

Marshal Balbo in 1933 led a historic mass flight of Italian planes to the United States.

He received such an ovation both in the United States and at home as the result of the flight that Premier Mussolini was rumored to have been displeased at his rapid rise in popular favor.

Shortly after his return to Italy in 1933 he was appointed to the Libyan post, a move interpreted in some quarters as designed to remove him from the limelight.

Rome gossip at the time said Balbo was sent to Libya to keep his "political shadow from darkening the Piazza Venezia," where stands the palace of Premier Mussolini.

ECLIPSED BY CIANO

His apparent decline as one of Fascism's chief heroes coincided with the rise of a new favorite of Il Duce, Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano, now Mussolini's son-in-law.

RUMANIANS BATTLE RED INVADERS, AWAIT HELP

BUCHAREST, June 29 (AP)—The Red army's occupation of Rumanian territories ceded by King Carol was transformed abruptly into actual invasion today as Soviet tanks and infantry drove farther into old Rumania itself.

Through its minister to Moscow, Rumania has agreed to evacuate Bessarabia and northen Bucovina without opposition. But King Carol met the threat of deeper Soviet penetrations, and the joint dangers of further territorial demands from mobilized Hungary and Bulgaria, with an order for mobilization "to the last man" and a call for an emergency session of Parliament this afternoon.

The Soviet occupation of Bessarabia and northern Bucovina brought bloodshed. At Cernauti, 15 miles south of the border of Polish Russia, anti-Communist civilian snipers fired on advance tank units of the Soviet army, and were not dispersed until Russian infantry arrived in force.

RUMANIANS OPEN FIRE

At an undisclosed point on the Bessarabian-Russian frontier, Rumanian troops opened fire with machine guns on Russian infantrymen.

The fighting at Cernauti, a city of 110,000, began as a skirmish between Communist and anti-Communist civilians. Arrival of the Russian tanks, which went charging into street barricades, drove the anti-Communist forces to housetops. Scores of civilians were killed and wounded before the Red infantry was able to break this resistance.

The Russian advances into pre-World War Rumania from the Cernauti area were reported to have reached the towns of Dorohio and Botoshan in Moldavia, 15 and 25 miles, respectively beyond the River Prut, the western boundary of Bessarabia.

The Bulgarian newspaper Outro in Sofia previously had declared that Germany would take "action" if the Russians should go beyond the Prut. Outro, known to be a Nazi mouthpiece, said Germany would "use all efforts to preserve calm" in its desire to prevent any further changes in the Balkans."

NAZIS' HANDS OFF

Authorized sources in Berlin said Germany's policy still was "hands off the Balkans" despite the Rumanian mobilization. Confidence was expressed the cessions to Russia would be made without any serious disturbances.

The Berlin press unanimously blamed Rumania's predicament on her acceptance of guarantees of territorial integrity from Britain—which, according to Adolf Hitler's Volkischer Beobachter, in effect was taking sides in the war which was to com .

The same paper said subsequent Rumanian vacillation was responsible for the strained relations with Russia, and that "the return of Bessarabia to Russia was to be expected in the train of events attending the creation of a new European order."

Rumanian mobilization, which started at midnight last night and is expected to be completed in two days, was proclaimed shortly after receipt of an official Hungarian news agency communique announcing that the Hungarian government had decided "to make control more severe all along the Rumanian border and to order frontier chasseur troops to advance" because of the unclear situation in Rumania.

It was not known here what was meant by the words "order frontier chasseur troops to advance." But King Carol's government is taking every precaution. Large forces

BUDAPEST, June 29 (INS)—A fierce battle raged between Rumanian and Soviet troops today along the Pruth river, as Rumanian Gen. Florescu refused to withold fire when the Red army troops marched into Bucovina.

Reinforcements of Russian troops were required to effect a crossing of the Pruth in the face of Rumanian resistance.

Long after the Russian troops effected a bridgehead, the battle still continued furiously today.

Axis in Warning To Americas

BERLIN, June 29 (AP)—The publication, "Berlin-Rome-Tokio," issued under foreign office auspices, warned North and South American republics today that their attitude may determine the future economics relations of the. "New Europe" with the Americas. The article was sanctioned by Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop.

200 U. S. WOMEN TO FLEE CHINA

HONGKONG, June 29 (AP) — Great Britain, in preparation for a threatened crisis with Japan, today ordered compulsory removal of all European women and children from the Hongkong crown colony.

Removal of approximately 200 American women and children from Hongkong was believed decided upon by United States officials here. There are at least 4500 British women and children here.

The impending mass flight was taken generally as a sign that Britain would reject Japan's demand for closing the Burma route to China, over which Japan charges the Chinese have been getting arms.

Japan was expected to retaliate by attempting to blockade Hongkong or even launching an invasion, observers said. It was said that Britain would adopt powerful counter-measures, no matter what the consequences.

The crisis was expected within 10 days.

Although Manila is the refugees' initial destination, it is understood they ultimately might be sent to Australia or New Zealand.

Banks experienced a rush and long queues of women and children lined up at the health office for vaccination required for entry at Manila.

U. S.-Listed Freighter Torpedoed Off France

NEW YORK, June 29 (INS)—Two freight vessels were reported torpedoed today 300 miles off the coast of France in a message picked up by the Mackay Radio from the American Export liner Excalibur.

The message from the Excalibur identified the freighters as the S. S. Edgehill and the S. S. Empire Toucan and read:

"S. S. information from GYW: "S. S. Edgehill, 49.27 N. 15.25 W. Torpedoed 10:25 p. m., June 28. S. S. Empire Toucan, 49.20 N. 13.52 W. Torpedoed 3:15 a. m., June 29."

The S. S. Empire Toucan is a British ship of 5000 tons and sailed from Galveston, Tex., recently for an undisclosed European port.

Lloyd's ship registry lists the S. S. Edgehill as a 6828-ton vessel operated by the Lykes Bros.-Ripley Steamship Co. of New Orleans.

Spokesmen for the maritime commission in Washington said it was probable the ship had been sold and transferred to foreign registry since the outbreak of the war.

Willkie to Fill Hamilton's Post

PHILADELPHIA, June 29 (INS)—The Republican National Committee today delayed selection of a chairman after GOP leaders deadlocked over suggested re-election of John D. M. Hamilton.

The committee, after an extended executive session decided to name an 11-man sub-committee to confer later with Presidential Nominee Wendell L. Willkie.

In the last analysis, Willkie will have final say in selecting the man who will handle his campaign.

The sub-committee also was empowered to name the treasurer, secretary, and executive committee.

Thus the unusual step leaves the entire GOP national organization up in the air until Willkie has had a chance to consider and express his desires.

The sub-group consists of Walter S. Hallanan, West Virginia, William F. Knowland, California; Samuel Pryor, Jr., Connecticut; Sinclair Weeks, Massachusetts; Harrison E. Spangler, Iowa; Ezra R. White, Idaho; Mrs. Grace B. Reynolds, Indiana; Harry P. Fletcher, Rhode Island; Mrs. Worthington, Pennsylvania; Frank O. Horton, Wyoming; and William Stern, North Dakota.

The party's high strategy board apparently had come to a tacit understanding early this morning that John D. M. Hamilton would be reelected chairman.

But later, when the national committee met to confirm this, something went wrong. The committee waited an houd and a half while Hamilton was in conference with Alf M. Landon, the party's 1936 nominee. Someone, and it was whispered it might have been Landon, apparently had raised an objection to his re-election.

When the committee finally was called to order it immediately went into executive session and prepared to thrash out the matter behind closed doors.

WILLKIE ON CRUISE

Accompanied by his wife and son, he sailed from this Delaware river port at 12:15 p. m. aboard the yacht of Roy Howard, newspaper publisher, whose guest he is.

Other members of the party included Mrs. Howard and Russell Davenport of New York, who resigned his post as a magazine editor a few weeks ago to assist in the Willkie campaign.

Scarcely a half dozen newspapermen an dphotographs were at the pier to see the yacht, Jamaroy, pull into the river and head for Delaware Bay and the Atlantic Ocean.

It was expected that the yacht would reach New York either late tomorro wnight or early Monday

FRENCH WARSHIPS NOW PERIL BRITAIN

LONDON, June 29 (AP)—The possibility that Germany has seized four French men o' war, giving her a 6 to 3 advantage over Britain in fast, well-armored craft with the hitting power of dreadnoughts, carries a threat to British sea supremacy, neutral sources declared today.

Addition of these ships—the 35,000-ton Richelieu and Jean Bart and the 26,500-ton Dunkerque and Strasbourg—to Germany's battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau would raise the Nazi battle fleet to the point where it could, with sufficient air and undersea auxiliaries, challenge the British battle line, these sources said.

GREATER THREAT

This threat to Britain's grand fleet is far greater than that of submarine or Nazi aircraft, in the opinion of these naval men.

(On June 23, the German high command announced the capture "with enormous booty" of the French shipbuilding port of St. Nazaire — where the Jean Bart, launched March 6, was being completed. Previously, the Berlin newspaper Der Angriff said the Richelieu had been seized when the Nazis took the port of Brest.—Editor's Note.)

With the four French ships, the Germans would have an edge in speed and weight of metal over Britain's three battle cruisers, the Hood, Repulse and Renown — the only British ships with enough speed to catch and enough guns to destroy the Germans' two battleships.

EXCEEDED IN TRIALS

Jane's fighting ships credits the Scharnhorst and Gneiseneau with tonnage of 26,000, nine 11-inch guns and speed of 27 knots. Neutral naval experts say this speed has been exceeded in trials.

The Richelieu and Jean Bart, mounting eight 15-inch guns each, can better 30 knots. The Dunkerque and Strasbourg have eight 13-inch guns and "book" speed of 29.5 knots. In service, they are said to have done better.

Of the three British battle cruisers, only the Hood can better 30 knots. It has done 32.07, while the others hover around 29. The Hood mounts eight 15-inch guns, the Repulse and Renown six each. The Hood is the heaviest, 42,100 tons. The other two are 32,000 tons.

29 Die In Raids On Channel Isles

LONDON, June 29 (AP)—Twenty-nine persons were killed in German air raids on the channel islands of Guernsey and Jersey last night, the Home Office announced today, and a few bombs were dropped on widely separated parts of the British Isles this morning.

The raids on the channel islands, off the French coast, came shortly after the British government had announced that they were being demilitarized.

Nazis, Balkan States Discuss War Trade

ROME, June 29 (AP)—Delegates of Germany, Italy and Hungary and three Balkan countries, Rumania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia, met here today to settle trade and transportation problems arising from the war.

Defense Tax Goes In Effect Monday

Beginning Monday, Mr. and Mrs. Massachusetts, along with the nation, will start pouring pennies into Uncle Sam's defense kitty.

For then the national defense tax bill goes into effect, under which a sports and luxury loving public must pay an additional ten per cent for tickets to theaters, ball games, horse and dog races, other amusements and night clubs.

On the same day, liquor prices will increase. Tobacco dealers in many cases already have informed customers of an increase in cigarettes. Likewise affected are prices for gasoline, oil, and automotive parts.

The tax also will be felt by some 22,000 corporations in the state, which will have to pay 10 cents on each $1000 of capital stock.

FEAR BOOTLEGGING

Federal agencies were working at high speed today to be ready.

Thomas B. Hassett, district collector of internal revenue here, said a staff of 150 clerks expected to mail out forms and notices by noon to all persons and firms liable to the tax.

Fearing an increase in bootlegging and smuggling, federal agents of the alcohol tax units and Coast Guard officers were tightening enforcement lines.

The Boston Retail Liquor Dealers' Association said the consuming public would have to absorb the tax this time, because taverns and restaurants assumed the two previous taxes since 1938.

FLOOR TAX

The tax on distilled spirits will be 75 cents a proof gallon, although each liquor dealer is allowed exemption of 100 liquid gallons on his premises.

There is a floor tax of $1 a barrel on fermented malt liquors, but this is not applicable to retail stocks held by a person on the premises for which he has assumed liability as a retailer only.

Heretofore theater tickets were untaxed if the price was 40 cents or less, but beginning Monday only tickets of 20 cents or less are exempt.

At night clubs and cafes which provide entertainment the tax is increased from 1½ to 2 cents on each dollar charged the patron. Cigarette dealers, wholesalers and retailers, must pay a tax of 5 cents per 1000 on all cigarettes on hand July 1.

The gasoline tax will be increased ½ cent, making the total gasoline tax in Massachusetts 4½ cents on a gallon. Tax on tires will be upped from 2¼ to 2½ cents a pound; inner tubes, 4 to 4½ cents; lubricating oil from 4 to 4½ cents a gallon; auto bodies from 3 to 3½ per cent, and auto accessories from 2 to 2½ cents.

All persons subject to the tax on liquor and cigarettes will be required to file an inventory in triplicate of floor stocks held for sale or use July 1, Hassett said.

SOUGHT — Missing for a week, Genevieve DeNatalie (above), 16, of South Boston, today was being sought by police after appeal by the girl's relatives. She's been missing for over a week.

New Ships Boom Navy Yard Jobs

Both the Charlestown and Portsmouth, N. H. navy yards apparently are headed for new all-time high records in employment.

Promising increased employment was the announcement from Washington—not yet official at the yards—that five new submarines will be constructed at Portsmouth and five destroyers at Charlestown.

At Portsmouth, 5400 men are already employed. This is within 100 of the all-time maximum reached during the World War. Charlestown likewise is operating at almost maximum quota.

Thus, when the new defense program gets under way, it was expected that record-breaking numbers will be hired.

Russia Closes Three Black Sea Ports

NEW YORK, June 29 (AP)—A British Broadcasting Corporation report, heard by NBC, stated today that Soviet Russia had closed three of her Black Sea ports, including the oil port of Batum.

Odessa, Russia's principal Black Sea port, was named as another of those closed. The name of the third could not be heard distinctly, NBC reported. Odessa, in on the northern coast near the Rumanian border. Batum is in the Caucaus close to the Turkish frontier.

Balbo, Italy's Idol, Killed in Air Battle

came friends when they fought together in the World War, in which both won decorations for valor.

At the armistice Balbo returned to civilian life, but not for long. He soon organized the black shirt militia in his native region of Ferrara and Emilia, where he was born June 5, 1896.

Balbo was appointed a commander of a Fascist military action squad and, when Mussolini staged his famous march on Rome in October, 1922, Balbo was a leader. When the success of the revolution was established, he was made minister of national economy and general of the black shirt militia.

HIS CASTOR OIL IDEA

In that capacity he was credited with "inventing" the Fascists' castor oil treatment for their adversaries.

In swift succession he was appointed to the posts of undersecretary for air, general of the air fleet and air minister.

He had learned to fly, and in 1926, when he was undersecretary for air, obtained a pilot's license. From the day he was appointed air minister in September, 1929, he set about reorganizing the Italian air force.

The first and most important of his moves was to promote mass flights. He organized a flight of 65 planes over the Mediterranean, led 36 bombers on a cruise as far east as Russia's Black sea port of Odessa, and in 1931 headed a flight of 12 seaplanes from Rome to Rio de Janeiro, the greatest mass flight there had seen until then.

FLIGHT TO U. S.

Then came his historic flight with 24 planes and 96 men from Rome to Chicago. The flight started on June 30, 1933, with the following itinerary:

July 1—Arrived at Amsterdam, 870 miles in 7 hours 3 minutes.

July 2—Arrived near Londonderry, Ireland, 630 miles in 5 hours 20 minutes.

July 3 — Left Londonderry, reached Reykjavik, Iceland, 930 miles in 6 hours 35 minutes.

July 12—Left Reykjavik, landed at Cartwright, Labrador, 1500 miles in 11 hours 50 minutes.

July 13—Arrived Shediac, New Brunswick, 800 miles in 6 hours 17 minutes.

July 14—Arrived at Montreal, 500 miles in 3 hours 34 minutes.

July 15—Arrived in Chicago, 870 miles in 7 hours 30 minutes.

HOST TO LINDBERGHS

Four days later the giant armada and its bearded, handsome leader flew over New York as millions turned out to watch. Broadway gavoe Balbo a tremendous reception. He and his fliers began their homeward flight July 25.

On Aug. 12, they reached Rome, where Balbo was idolized and Mussolini promptly appointed him air marshal. Italians took to raising beards simply because Balbo had one, a fad that didn't wear off until it appeared that the marshal was losing favor with Il Duce because of this very popularity.

In November, 1933, Balbo was appointed governor of Libya, and in January of the next year he sailed to assume the post.

In 1937, the same year that he received the Charles A. Lindberghs as his guests at Tripoli, Balbo was made commander-in-chief of the naval and military command of North Africa.

RED, NAZI BAN AIM OF LABOR

WASHINGTON, June 29 (AP)—Congressional action to outlaw the Communist party and the Nazi Bund was advocated today by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Green made the recommendation in an address to the FBI-sponsored National Police Academy.

"When the Congress recently adopted measures to purge Communists and Nazis from relief rolls and to keep an official check on the whereabouts and activities of resident aliens, the American Federation of Labor interposed no objections," said Green.

"We consider it shameful that a labor group, not affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, bitterly opposed these measures, and lent itself to underhanded attacks on the Federal Bureau of Investigation."

F. D. Signs Alien Listing Bill

WASHINGTON, June 29 (AP)—President Roosevelt signed into law today a bill requiring registration and fingerprinting of approximately 3,500,000 aliens in the United States.

In a statement issued simultaneously, the President expressed hope no "loyal aliens" would be subjected to harassment in the course of his program, but added:

"With those aliens who are disloyal and are bent on harm to this country, the government, through its law enforcement agencies, can and will deal vigorously."

Indian Traffic Route for N. Y.

NEW YORK, June 29 (AP)—New York City today opened up a $30,000,000 parkway with an admission that the Indians knew more about handling traffic than the political sachems who followed.

It was the new 35-mile belt parkway skirting the city on three sides from, roughly, the Brooklyn Bridge around the edge of Brooklyn and Queens to the Whitestone Bridge, between Queens and the Bronx.

For residents of Brooklyn and Queens, an area extending out as far as 15 miles from Times sq., the parway provides a new quick route to the Whitestone Bridge, New England and the northeast.

Coldest June In 12 Years

The coldest June in 12 years started on June 20 when the mercury settled into the low 50s, staying there for the rest of the month.

Two all-time cold records were set on June 21 and 22 when the temperature dropped to 48 and 46 degrees. The previous records for those dates had been 49 degrees on June 21, 1918 and 48 degrees on June 22, 1881.

Average daily temperature for the month was one-half degree below normal. The warmest day of the month was June 13, 90 degrees. Precipitation was one-third less than normal, and—believe it or not—there were only three days without sunshine.

WPA Worker Held As Burglars' Fence

Alleged to have bought 15 stolen watches for $7, a South End WPA worker was arrested today on a charge of receiving stolen property. Police said the arrest solved a Washington st. jewelry store burglary. The loot was recovered, investigators said.

The accused "fence," Joseph Singletary, 30, of Emerald st., South End, was taken in custody by Lieut. James V. Crowley and Detective Thomas Conaty. They said he admitted purchase of the watches.

Testify at Trial of West Roxbury Officers

Two West Roxbury policemen on trial on charges of breaking into a store and stealing liquor will tell their story on resumption of the trial in West Roxbury court today.

Prior to the week-end adjournment, Capt. John J. McArdle of the West Roxbury station testified that one of the two patrolmen admitted during questioning that he took liquor from the store.

NOT GUILTY

The two patrolmen, John S. Stabins, of East Sixth st., South Boston, and Joseph R. Carey, of King st., Dorchester, pleaded not guilty to the charges of breaking and entering a store in Center st., and larceny of $118 worth of Scotch whiskey. They are under suspension pending the outcome of the case.

Questioned in the presence of Supt. Edward W. Fallon, Stabins at first admitted taking 12 bottles from the store, but later changed his story, under questioning, and said he found the bottles outside the store, McArdle testified.

REFUSED TO TALK

Carey, according to Capt. McArdle, claimed he knew nothing of the break, although he said he had been off his beat and in the vicinity of the store, and refused to make any further statements.

Miss Natalie Hatch, 20, of Center st., whose home is at the rear of the stores, testified that she had driven into the alley with a friend Leo Foley, of Rexhame st., Roslindale, shortly after midnight. She said that after a policeman, whom she could not identify, came over and spoke to them, she went into the house and Foley drove home

SHE SAW 2 CARS

Miss Hatch's sister-in-law, Mrs. Joseph B. Hatch, of the same address, testified that she saw the two cars, Foley's and the police cruiser, in the alley when she returned home at 12:15. She said there were two men standing at the rear door of the liquor store, one in a policeman's uniform.

3 NEW NAVY FLYING SCHOOLS SCHEDULED

WASHINGTON, June 29 (INS)—Plans for creation of three new naval training bases to build up a pilot force of 16,000 were revealed today by Rear Admiral J. H. Towers, chief of the navy's Bureau of Aeronautics.

The navy hopes to have 10,000 airplanes in its forces within the next two years and extensive facilities are necessary to train new pilots, powers said.

To attain this objective, training centers will be located at Miami and Jacksonville, Fla., and Corpus Christi, Tex. The proposed Texas base will duplicate the existing naval training establishment at Pensacola, Fla., according to Towers. Enlargement of facilities at other naval reserve aviation bases also is contemplated.

FLEET POSITION SECRET

Meanwhile a high naval official revealed that defense leaders are gratified over the fact that the United States fleet has been able to shroud its movements in complete mystery for nearly a week.

The exact position of the Pacific flotilla of more than 100 warships, in terms of latitude and longitude, is unknown even to President Roosevelt. Only a handful of persons, including the President and the fleet commanders, know the fleet's destination.

"This is the first time that the American navy has been able to move practically its entire force in complete secrecy," a naval spokesman said.

Neither President Roosevelt nor the navy's high command would discuss reports that the fleet is heading for the Panama Canal and the Atlantic ocean.

Other national defense steps taken by the government, meanwhile, included orders to navy yards to start construction of 19 new warships at a cost of $154,000,000. Ten destroyers and nine submarines are included in this program. Within a short time the navy will start work on an additional 49 ships for which funds already have been provided.

SHIP RULES TIGHTEN

Sweeping regulations governing the movements of foreign and domestic ships in American harbors and waters were announced yesterday by the Treasury.

Creation of an office of merchant ship movements, composed of Treasury and Coast Guard officials, vested with czar-like control over all commercial and private shipping, was announced.

This agency has power to seize any vessel whose movements and cargo is considered to jeopardize American defense and neutrality policies. In the future no vessel may leave an American port without the Treasury's permission.

Snow Urges U. S. War Air Force

Charging quantity had wrongly been sacrificed to quality in the nation's pilot training program, Crocker Snow, Massachusetts aviation director, called today for establishment of a separate United States air force.

"The lesson learned from the battle of France is easy to read," he told the New England Council's 56th quarterly meeting at Portsmouth, N. H.

"The Allied air force—man for man and plane for plane—was superior to that of the Germans, but the Germans had such numerical superiority that they retained complete control of the air."

Modern military planes, Snow asserted, can outlast any pilot; thus it is necessary to have two or three times as many pilots as planes. But, he continued, the United States has no such pilot reserve.

This shortage of a pilot reserve Snow blamed on "a lack of intelligent coordination between the military forces and the civil agencies."

2 Drowned as Car Plunges Into Hudson

NEW YORK, June 29 (INS)—Trapped in their sedan when it hurtled through a guard rail and into the Hudson river early today, a Jersey City couple, hurrying home from a theater party, were drowned in 35 feet of water.

The couple was identified as Ray B. Miller, 29, owner of the car, and his wife, Mrs. Muriel Morris Miller, 28.

Mother, 3 Daughters Are Burned to Death

EL MONTE, Cal., June 29 (AP)—A mother and her three daughters burned to death today, apparently while they slept, as the husband and father tried frantically to force his way inside their house only to be beaten off by the intense heat.

The victims were Mrs. Edna Blanche Lane, 40; Mrs. Clara Isabelle Brookman, 19; Patricia June Lane, 9, and Joyce Diane Lane, 6.

Stocks Spotty In Slow Trade

NEW YORK, June 29 (AP)—Buying demand faltered in today's stock market and many traders stepped aside to await further developments in politics, business and the European war.

A portion of yesterday's rally seeped into the list at the start, when fractional gains were registered in most departments. At the close prices were spotty with several leaders down a share to around $1 a share. Dealings were inconsequential throughout.

Wall Street, generally, retained much of its optimism engendered by the Willkie presidential nomination but it was realized the campaign had a long way to go.

Among restraining influences listed in brokerage quarters were possibility of a nearby devastating German blast at England, chances of an early peace involving important alterations in the nature of American export trends, and practical certainty of a thorough revision of the federal tax structure.

Bonds were uneven, as were commodities. "Free" sterling weakened in terms of the dollar.

Ship Ashore Off Gay Head

Driven ashore in blinding rain, the New London dragger Nellie was in distress today on the south side of Gay Head on Martha's Vineyard. The Coast Guard cutter Argo was speeding from Newport to the scene to try to pull the dragger free.

The fishing vessel, a 60-footer, carries a crew of four or five men. They are not believed to be in danger.

DEB BETH CHALIFOUX TO WED DRAPER HEIR

A North Shore romance of wide interest to Greater Boston socialites was revealed today with announcement of the engagement of Miss Elizabeth B. Chalifoux of Beverly and Harry Engman Draper of Back Bay and Hyannis.

Betty Chalifoux, one of the North Shore's most expert young horsewomen, attended Winsor school in Boston, Foxcroft in Virginia and Miss Stout's European Travel School.

HAD ORCHID DEBUT

Her glittering debut at an orchid ball at Hotel Somerset in December, 1938, was one of the events of that social season.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs Harold L. Chalifoux of Willowbanks, Beverly.

Her debut was sponsored by her distinguished and wealthy grandmother, Mrs. Albert Cameron Burrage. Her grandfather, before his death, was an internationally known orchid fancier.

Young Draper is a scion of one of New England's oldest families. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clare Hill Draper of Back Bay and Hyannis.

His grandfather, the late William F. Draper, served as a brigadier-general under Grant in the Civil War, then was ambassador to Italy for three years under the McKinley administration.

NEPHEW OF PRINCESS

Young Draper is the grand nephew of the late Gov. Eben Draper of Massachusetts and a nephew of Princess Margaret Boncompagni of Paris.

He attended exclusive Pomfret school and was graduated from Technology in 1939. He belongs to the Tennis and Racquet club and the Number Six Club of Tech.

The engagement was announced today by the bride's parents. No date has been set for the wedding.

Judges Attend Morton Rites

FALL RIVER, June 29 (AP)—Members of the judiciary, State and city officials paid final tribute today to retired Justice James M. Morton, Jr., at funeral services in the Unitarian Church. Rev. Arthur E. Wilson officiated.

Honorary pall bearers included former associates in the circuit court, Judge George E. Bingham, retired, Manchester, N. H.; Judge John C. Mahoney, Providence, and United States District Judge Hugh D. McLellan, Boston; Chief Justice Fred T. Field of the Massachusetts Supreme Court and Superior Court Justice Edward F. Hanify. Burial was in Oak Grove Cemetery.

Dairy Scientists Honor Bay Stater

LAFAYETTE, Ind., June 29 (AP)—Harry W. Cave of Oklahoma A. and M. College was elected president of the American Dairy Science Ass'n today. The association voted to meet in 1941 at the University of Vermont.

The organization cited J. H. Frandsen of Massachusetts State College for "outstanding contributions to the dairy industry and the association as a research worker, teacher and editor."

Five-Nation Bargain To Halt War Seen

LONDON, June 29 (AP)—A neutral diplomatic source envisions a possible British-Russian-Turkish alignment to bargain with Germany and Italy in a peace move said to be "in the air."

Any attempt by Germany to invade England is likely to await the outcome of this move, this source said last night.

He added that Britain's attitude apparently depended on the response of France's colonies and fleet to the rallying call of French Gen. Charles De Gaulle—recognized by the British government as "leader of all free Frenchmen"—to fight on for the Allied cause.

The diplomatic source pointed out, in this connection, the order of Gen. Eugene Mittelhauser, commander of the French army in Syria, for "cessation of hostilities" there.

"TWO WARS"

Vernon Bartlett, commentator for the News-Chronicle, predicted defection of most of the French despite De Gaulle's appeal.

"Faced with the possibility that the French African colonies now will surrender," Bartlett said today, "the British government must be prepared to fight two wars, one west of Gibraltar and the other east of the island of Pantellaria, the Italian fortress between Sicily and Tunis."

The most serious situation, Bartlett declared, is in Spain, "where a campaign for the restoration of Gibraltar would unite even many ardent Republicans behind Gen. Franco." He said Spanish occupation of Tangiers, opposite Gibraltar, threatened the closing of the western Mediterranean to Britain.

At the same time word came from Capetown that thousands of persons, at meetings organized by opposition to the government, urged the Union of South Africa to seek an "honorable peace" with Germany and Italy "without delay."

Demands Munich Crowd Resign

LONDON, June 29 (INS)—The official press association today circulated a letter, signed Strabolgi, demanding the resignations of Neville Chamberlain and Viscount Halifax from the British war cabinet and Sir Samuel Hoare as ambassador to Madrid.

Presumably written by Baron Strabolgi, internationally known British author and politician, the letter brought a new climax to the rising tide against "the disciples of appeasement" at Munich—a campaign openly prompted by fear they might seek appeasement with Germany once more.

"The greatest service they (Chamberlain, Halifax and Hoare) could do their country would be to resign," the letter stated.

BRITISH REFUGEES TO U. S.

LONDON, June 29 (AP)—The American embassy will open special headquarters at Grosvenor House Monday to handle the flood of immigration applications from British women and children seeking to flee war-threatened Britain, it was announced today.

Embassy officials said 10,000 personal calls had been made at the embassy this week regarding arrangements to go to America for duration of the conflict.

The embassy is handling arrangements for 1000 to 1500 Americans who want passage home aboard the liner Washington. It disclosed that some 40,000 refugees, mostly from Germany, also are seeking entry into the United States.

Britain, which previously did not use up its annual immigration quota of 67,000, probably will fill its allotment for the new year which begins Monday. No visitors' permits are being granted, all must go as immigrants.

Officials estimated that well over 100,000 children have been registered as seeking havens in Canada and other overseas dominions, but they said the total response from the dominions was not nearly enough to accommodate them all.

The first hundreds of Canada's agreed quota of 10,000, many of them from what are classed as the most dangerous areas of Britain in event of invasion, are expected to sail within two weeks.

War Bulletins

MEXICO CITY, June 29 (AP)—All foreigners entering the United States from Mexico after July 1 must have passports, the ministry of foreign relations announced today.

LONDON, June 29 (INS)—Capt. George Pitt-Rivers, former aide de camp to the governor-general of Australia and noted British economist, was arrested today under the English defense regulations.

LONDON, June 29 (AP)—The dominions and colonial offices announced today the arrival of an unspecified number of artillerymen from Newfoundland yesterday.

LA JUNQUERA, Spain, June 29 (AP)—The French Government has seized 150 airplanes which were ready to be flown to French Morocco, border reports said today. The planes had been concentrated in an airdrome near the border.

LONDON, June 29 (AP)—Aircraft flying very high over southwest England drew anti-aircraft fire today and there were unconfirmed reports that Royal Air Force fighters brought down a German bomber.

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, June 29 (AP)—About 100 Americans have crossed the Franco-Spanish frontier since the Nazi flag was hoisted near the international bridge near the Bidasoa river. All were en route to La Coruna and Bilboa to board ships for the United States.

REDS SMASH WAY THROUGH RUMANIA

long have been stationed in Transylvania, rich agricultural province which was part of Austria-Hungary before the World War, to match the Hungarian troops massed across the border, and these are expected to be reinforced.

CLAIM AXIS SUPPORT

Official quarters in Budapest said the Hungarian border troops would march into Transylvania with full support of the Rome-Berlin axis if the Russians were to continue their advance toward the Carpathian mountains.

The information that Russian troops had advanced into Moldavia caused the government to send an urgent appeal to Adolf Hitler to bring pressure on Moscow for recall of the Soviet forces to the line originally agreed upon in the Russian-Rumanian deliberations.

The purpose of the Nazi military mission which arrived here last night was said to be to make sure that Russia did not overstep its original demands. At the same time it was learned the German legation had warned King Carol's government to strengthen internal police control against possible "revolution activity by Communists and Jews."

Except for a few demonstrations and disorders, the Soviet occupation of Bessarabia, which according to the official Moscow communique was "wrested" from the Soviet Union in 1918, continued without a serious hitch.

BESSARABIA SEIZED

Occupation of Bessarabia, which according to the official Moscow communique was "wrested" from the Soviet Union in 1918, continued without a serious hitch. Refugees hurriedly left the province ahead of the incoming troops, and Rumania's Bessarabian army units were moved to other parts of the frontier.

The work of the Rumanian general staff in effecting mobilization was made more difficult by the fact that many of the soldiers stationed along the Hungarian border live in Bessarabia and, under the terms of the Russian ultimatum, must return to their homes to take up life as new citizens of the Soviet.

6000 Poles From Syria Join British

LONDON, June 29 (AP)—Six thousand Polish troops have crossed the Syrian frontier into Palestine and joined the British forces there, the Polish government announced today through British official sources.

When it became apparent that French General Mittelhauser might throw his lot with the Bordeaux government, the statement said, Gen. Sikorski ordered the Polish brigade to join the British forces.

They were reported to have crossed the frontier with full war equipment.

Italian Warship Sunk in Battle

CAIRO, Egypt, June 29 (AP)—The sinking of one of three Italian destroyers in an engagement last night was announced today by the British navy.

A British communique said:

"British naval forces operating in the central Mediterranean on the evening of June 28 sighted three enemy destroyers which retired at high speed. In the ensuing chase one enemy destoyer was sunk. The other two escaped under cover of darkness."

French Chiefs Quit Bordeaux as Capital

BORDEAUX, June 29 (AP)—The French government was expected to leave Bordeaux today for Clermont-Ferrand or some other town in the unoccupied area of France, but the destination and time of departure remained secret.

Possibility the government might later return to Paris was not ruled out, but it was generally believed an interim capital would be established in the Clermont region.

these regions is "a matter of grave concern to Japan."

Arita, who delivered his warning in a radio broadcast to the empire, clearly enunciated an Oriental "Monroe Doctrine" in which he envisaged East Asia "uniting under a single sphere" with Japan as the "stabilizing force."

At the same time the foreign minister declared that Japan's conflict with China is a step toward building a new order in the East founded on a "just and permanent peace" and he cautioned foreign nations to keep their hands off.

Italians Claim 20 Planes Destroyed

ROME, June 29 (AP)—About 20 British planes were destroyed in an air bombardment of a camp south of Marsa Matruh on the Egyptian coast of the Mediterranean, the Italian high command reported today.

VALLETTA, Malta, June 29 (AP)—Italian warplanes flew over this British Mediterranean naval base twice yesterday, but dropped no bombs.

CAIRO, June 29 (AP)—The British Royal Air Force reported today its fighters had destroyed large quantities of gasoline and bombs yesterday in raids on dumps at Macaraca, Italian East Africa.

WENDELL L. WILLKIE

The Man Who Crashed The Republican Gate!

TELLS

AUSTEN LAKE

ABOUT HIS PLANS

Staff writer Lake draws a word-portrait of the first non-political business candidate who challenges the New Deal's theory. Find out some things you don't know about the man who has a chance to offset the Roosevelt "charm school."

SUNDAY ADVERTISER

AUSTEN LAKE TELLS HOW WILLKIE WORKED MIRACLE

By AUSTEN LAKE

PHILADELPHIA, June 29—This is Saturday. A week ago, when Wendell Willkie came to Philadelphia to set up camp he came like a political hobo, with an ex-magazine-editor-turned-campaign-manager, a personal secretary to take the load of detail off his neck and one portable typewriter.

At the time he arrived from New York, he descended at the Broad Street Station and looked around.

No battalion of reporters were there to greet him.

No massed mob of party fawners were gathered to shout him in.

No bands, no fuss, no feathers.

He just stepped into a taxi and poked off to his hotel.

That's a fair picture! Willkie was a political nobody from nowhere with a pants full of nothing in a way of votes. If he could count half a dozen promissory ballots that was the limit.

THE TOP IN JOKES

Last Sunday night when the main body of delegates began to unload, they had a headfull of different ideas than Willkie. To them he was merely a face on a magazine cover, the man who sassed the New Deal about TVA, the man who tongue-punched Attorney General Jackson silly in Town Hall meeting, a corn-belt-born dillettante and a man of cracker-barrel letters. That was all! Vote for him as the Republican candidate? Ha! Ha! Now I'll tell one!

But they did! Five nights later they scampered, hollering hossanahs to his banner and laid their political chins on his knee. He was Willkie-the-wonder-worker!

HOW DID IT HAPPEN?

How did such a modern political miracle happen? When Willkie arrived he looked upon the scene and began his own genesis.

"Let there be a batch of office helpers . . . store fronts with brochures, fliers and pamphlets. Let there be campaigners also!"

And it came to pass on the second day.

Then Wendell Willkie looked around again!

"Let 'em all in—newsmen, kibitzers, delegates and the phantasmagoria of political life," he said.

And it was even so.

On the second day a trickle of delegates wandered in to have a look at this human curio—the man who hoped to crash the party.

They came to leer and they stayed to cheer. Willkie called others on the phone. The word passed, and—as Dist. Atty. Thomas E. Dewey told this reporter yesterday:

"It was like the measles in an orphanage. He infected everybody who came near him."

PARTY PETS SMUG

But the Republican party's pets were smug in the notion that no unattached raider, sans organization, sans G. O. P. blessing, would get anything but a country-wide giggle for his pains.

Why, hell, Bill, the Republican party had been doing business as a closed shop for years. If you weren't in, deep and intimately IN, you were out and abysmally OUT!

No gent with a satchel full of campaign buttons could blitzkrieg them! But by Tuesday, the day before the nominating speeches, little furrows of worry puckered the pets' brows. Delegates had talked to other delegates.

The virus was spreading. The papers carried yarns about rebellion on the floor and a "stop Willkie" movement was started.

("Nobody is trying to stop me," complained Sen. Arthur Vandenberg with a comical trace of wistfulness). Nobody needed to!

Now that her husband has been chosen by the Republican nominee, Mrs. Wendell Willkie, always a bit shy of the press and public acclaim, gets accustomed to being interviewed. Here, she's shown answering the barrage of questions fired at her by women scribes.

BAGS FIRST BIG PRIZE

Tuesday night Willkie bagged his first big prize in Governor Harold Stassen, the G. O. P. keynoter. And then Governor Baldwin of Connecticut and Governor Carr of Colorado.

Unknown to himself he already had Governor Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, but tactful Leverett with his rockbound loyalty to Joe Martin didn't say so vulgarly, out loud. He just whispered it in the secret recesses of his soul.

It was a word of mouth campaign, plus the flood of press publicity that he had received in the last few months, plus his articulate tongue, plus his headfull of well marshalled facts, his storybook background, his stainless record and he-man looks.

THE TIME—AND THE MAN

This, as events happened, was a meeting of the man at the crossroads of time, for in normal national affairs of the pre-Hoover era, Willkie could have stormed the Republican convention and done well to get a guest pass to the galleries.

The people then had all the political leadership they needed, thank you! Run away and peddle your kilowatt hours, my good man, and leave the nation's business to the party papas! They would have said that.

Willkie himself says so! He admits that he is an instrument and a kind of prescription label on a national medicine bottle which the people happen, in the countrywide stomach to want—or at least some of the people!

For some of the die-hard, barnacled delegates are still in mourning over Taft's and Dewey's lost cause, and a sample conversation is the one which this writer heard in the Ben Franklin elevator yesterday.

First delegate—When does the funeral begin?

Second delegate—When Willkie makes his first campaign speech.

First delegate—He must've dumped a barrel of dough into this thing.

Second delegate—Yeh! Tons of it!

Fact is that Willkie spent very few thousands either of his own or subscription funds. And he added this comment in his first press forum on Friday, when a reporter asked for his views on the Hatch Bill, which is essentialy an act to take the pig out of politics.

"I hope the Hatch Bill is passed immediately," said Willkie, "and I suggest that the Hatch bill be applied to my future campaign chest. For I am determined that no large contributions will be accepted and that they should be small and widely diffused."

WILL IT WORK

Sounds good in principle; now for the practice!

So the climax of one man's busy week came Friday when he, who had unloaded in solitary last Saturday at Broad st., stood before the Republican convention and addressed the nerve-weary, throat-sore and footfagged party papas and mammas as the top man of them all.

Saturday's political hobo had, in seven days, become Friday's party patriarch, and the gathering which had known him only as a museum oddity in statecraft rose as one man and woman and helleluiahed him with one voice—"Wendell Willkieeee!"

Oh, yes! They nominated a Vice-President, too. His name is Charles L. McNary, Senate minority leader, and a proper pal for Wendell.

MORE HOMES AND HEARTS OPENED TO WAR ORPHANS

As final arrangements to transport children to Canada and the United States are completed in Britain, the names and addresses of all persons who have written to the American, Record and Sunday Advertiser and promised to shelter the little refugees are being distributed among the agencies which will assume the task of placing the children.

Applications made to these newspapers comprise the largest group in the United States, according to immigration authorities.

And, because almost every New England city and town is represented, officials have a list of homes to which the young evacuees can be sent without the delay that would otherwise be necessary.

There will be no need to confine the children in orphan asylums and community centers in this part of the country, although that procedure is planned in other and less prepared sections.

WANTS 3 CHILDREN

All requests for children received today and next week will be rushed to the proper American and foreign officials.

The purpose is to obtain a child for every family that wants one.

Typical letters in today's mail say:

BROCKTON—"My husband and I would gladly care for three children for the duration of the war. We have two daughterr, so we would prefer girls. I was in France during the World War and know what the children of Europe are experiencing. The American family that takes one or more of the Old World's sons and daughters is proving that God's word still has meaning in the New World."

WOULD ADOPT BOY

HOULTON, ME.—"I have a little girl and, of course, I love her dearly. My husband and I would be most happy if we could take a little boy war orphan and adopt him. We shall regard him always as our own child."

LOWELL—"My reading of Polish newspapers convinces me that there are hundreds of little Polish girls and boys stranded in London and other British cities. My wife and I would like to take two or three of these children.

"The sex or appearance doesn't matter. We are primarily concerned with getting the little ones to safety. We have a good home and can provide adequately for the children."

WILL TAKE TWO BOYS

WINTHROP—"I should be pleased to care for two boys for the remainder of the war. My husband and I are Jewish and would like to have Jewish children.

"There is positively no hope for children of that nationality abroad nowadays. I pray that God will see fit to allow them to come to the United States very soon. The boys will be well cared for in our home."

BOTHBAY HARBOR, Me.—"My husband and I have been married nine years and have no children. We would like to take two children of one family. In fact, we are prepared to take three rather than to separate brothers and sisters.

"We are not wealthy, but we have good health and habits and a comfortable home. So we believe we could make some little ones happy."

PASTOR APPROVES

Editor's Note: The above letter contains a postscript signed by the Rev. C. Martin O'Toole, pastor of the Church of Our Lady, Queen of Peace, saying:

"This couple belong to the parish of Our Lady, Queen of Peace, and are very fine characters. Thus I have no hesitation in recommending them and their home."

HINGHAM—"I should be pleased to adopt a little girl war orphan, the younger the better. My husband and I have been married 11 years and are childless. We would love to have a little daughter with golden hair and blue eyes. (We are both light complexioned.) We are Episcopalians and would prefer to have a child whose parents belonged to that church."

Woman's Body Found In Fire; Flier Hunted

HOLLYWOOD, June 29 (AP)—The body of a woman, believed to have been Mrs. Jack Chadbourne, 27, was found today in the smouldering ruins of the Chadbourne home in the Hollywood hills.

Chadbourne, 24, former army aviator and more recently a pilot for the Chinese government, was missing. Firemen searched the ruins for his body.

Wheeler Boomed as 3rd Party President Choice

By GEORGE DURNO

WASHINGTON, June 29 (INS)—A new threat to form a third party—with Sen. Burton K. Wheeler (D.) of Montana at its head—was injected into the national political scene today.

The threat, made by Sen. Edwin Johnson (D.) of Colorado, came as the Democrats began launching an offensive against the Republican ticket of Willkie and McNary just nominated in Philadelphia.

Johnson, generally regarded as the spokesman for a closely-knit group of isolationists in the Senate, said the new party, if formed, would be called the "Peace Party." He said Wheeler should head the third party "because Wheeler" is the only Democrat who can beat Willkie."

Wheeler could not be reached for comment.

Johnson declared the third party would be formed if the Democrats selected an "interventionist" as their presidential candidate at the Chicago convention July 15. He did not say whether he regarded President Roosevelt as an "interventionist," but it is significant that Johnson and Wheeler have been fighting the President's foreign policy on the grounds it would lead this nation into war.

Johnson, the man who originally started the boom for Wheeler for President, issued a formal statement saying:

"Willkie is vulnerable in his Wall St. connections and in his attitude toward war and the Democrats to win must take advant of his weakness."

John L. Lewis, head of the CIO, earlier had threatened to form a third party, and, it is believed, is friendly to Wheeler. The Montana Senator said recently he would bolt the Democratic party if it became a "war party."

WILLKIE MAPS PLAN FOR G. O. P. BATTLE

chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Willkie plunged into plans for a vigorous Republican campaign by hurling a challenge at Franklin D. Roosevelt, daring the President to seek a third term.

"I want to meet the champ," he said.

Forgetting his desire for "a week's sleep," the Republican standard bearer tackled a multitude of campaign problems.

Tired after a 20-hour-a-day schedule of talking with delegates, Willkie stayed up until after last-minute discussing strategy with the friends who ran his successful last-minute drive for the presidential nomination.

Willkie appeared yesterday for a brief talk before the shouting, handclapping Republican delegates to promise "a crusading, aggressive, fighting campaign to bring unity to America."

Delegates stood on their chairs and yelled when the nominee, until 1938 a registered Democrat, continued:

"I pledge myself to you, and I ask each of you to join with me in this great crusade."

WIFE IN SPOTLIGHT

Willkie was accompanied by his wife, who appeared cool and composed despite the glaring spotlights beating down upon the stage. She retired to the rear of the platform after hearing Chairman Joseph Martin introduce her as "the next mistress of the White House."

After the cheers for Mrs. Willkie died down, her husband stood before the big speakers' desk and declared emphatically:

"I want to say to the members of this convention that as your nominee I stand before you without a single pledge, promise or understanding of any kind except for the advancement of your cause and the preservation of American democracy.

"Forty-eight days ago, and only 48 days ago, I started out to preach to the American people the doctrine of unity, the doctrine of the destiny of America, and the fact that I am the nominee of this convention at this time proves simple doctrine to the American people."

ASKS NATIONAL UNITY

Willkie emphasized in his talk a demand for national unity and pledged his best efforts to obtain it.

With a toss of his head, he concluded by saying:

"Now I am going to sleep for a week."

That brought a roar from the crowd.

After his talk, Willkie surprised Philadelphia newspaper editors by calling at their offices to express his appreciation for "the fair treatment you have given me."

Willkie, who announced that he would resign as president of the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation to devote his whole time to the Republican campaign, kept his future plans indefinite.

Those attending last night's strategy conference made it plain that Willkie would make numerous speeches and would start organizing his campaign at once.

"Willkie has a job to do," one of them said, "and he is not going to try to take it easy."

Through the evening he was besieged at his hotel by delegates seeking a word with the nominee, by leaders come to discuss campaign plans, by curious persons hopin gto catch a glimpse of the man who had performed a political miracle and by a quick rub of the lamp been transformed from a big business man into a presidential nominee.

McNARY RELUCTANT

His vice-presidential running mate was in Washington. From there, Sen. McNary had given consent "like a good soldier" to make the race.

Once McNary's consent had been gained, the nomination was achieved quickly in one ballot.

Rep. Dewey Short of Missouri got a complimentary vote, but Short himself came to the platform to thank the delegates, withdraw his name with an explosion of oratory, and move that the McNary nomination be made unanimous. It was,

Dealers Start Willkie Attack

WASHINGTON, June 29 (INS)—Democrats lost no time today in launching an offensive against the Republican ticket of Willkie and McNary just nominated in Philadelphia.

As was predicted by old guard Republicans when they vainly sought to stop Wendell Willkie's nomination, the Democratic organization began at once to emphasize the G. O. P. presidential candidate's background as a public utilities executive and point to his lack of governmental experience, particularly in the field of foreign affairs.

James A. Farley, postmaster-general and Democratic national chairman, drew the issue when he spoke of the "concentrated control" which Willkie represented.

Secretary of Interior Harold Ickes, spearhead of the third term movement for President Roosevelt, also referred pointedly to the Republican standard bearer as a utility holding company executive and cited his lack of experience in public office.

When Lilacs Fail to Bloom

By T. W. LEGGETT

Many readers have stated that their double hybrid lilacs, which blossomed so well in previous years, did not flower at all this spring.

Either last summer's drought or a late spring frost or both may be the cause of non-flowering. Feed the plants generously with bone meal, mulch with old manure, and keep the bushes well watered this year. Usually the pruning incident to the cutting of bouquets suffices for lilacs.

Bushes that droop after flowering and turn black probably have been attacked by borers, and you may or may not be able to save them, depending upon the extent of the damage. See if you don't find holes along stems and branches.

If so, prune away as you can. Then squirt Bortox or Borkil into the remaining holes and seal with mud or modeling clay. Meanwhile, encourage a few strong suckers to develop on each of these old-fashioned bushes and gradually go away with all the old wood.

Hollywood Paragraphs

By HARRIET PARSONS

Pinch-Hitting for Louella O. Parsons, Who Is on Vacation

HOLLYWOOD, June 29—Alfred Hitchcock, rotund master of suspense, goes to RKO-Radio to direct two pictures. Studio has arranged to borrow him from David O. Selznick, who brought him over from England to direct the sensationally successful "Rebecca."

EMILY ROSS who is a member of the Cambridge Summer Theater company, opening its season in Brattle Hall on July 8.

Hitchcock has just completed "Foreign Correspondent," for which he was loaned to Walter Wanger. His first for RKO will be "Mr. and Mrs. Smith," Norman Krasna's original romantic comedy starring Carole Lombard. Immediately after he'll direct "Before The Fact," a psychological study of a murderer, which should be right up his alley. An English mystery novel, it is credited to Francis Iles, although rumor has it this is a nomdeplume—some say for James Hilton.

Heard and overheard: Latest to put in a bid for Shirley Temple is Lester Cowan, who wants her for a film based on F. Scott Fitzgerald's mag yarn, "Babylon Revisited." . . . There's a strong rumor going the rounds as to the reason for those Lana Turner—Artie Shaw—Greg. Bautzer huddles, and it's even more surprising than the trio, Greg, you remember, was Lana's steady beau before her sudden marriage. Well, he's still her legal adviser.

Republic is planning to star Judy Canova in a satire called "Bobina Hood." It's about a hillbilly gal who's never seen a gun but cleans up a gangster-ridden midwest town with her little bow and arrow. Gus Meins will direct, and Eddie Foy Jr., has a comedy spot.

Six Complete Shows Daily at the Met

To accomodate the capacity crowds storming the theater since the opening of the Bob Hope stage and screen show, the Metropolitan has scheduled six complete shows for each week day. Starting today doors will be opened at 8:30 a. m. and patrons coming as late as 10:30 p. m. will be able to see the entire stage and screen performance.

Pennies for Tax

The new United States Defense Tax on movie tickets goes into effect on Monday when 10 per cent will be added to every movie ticket over 20 cents. Up to now, the Federal levy has applied only on tickets priced over 40 cents.

It is estimated that more than 100,000 Hub moviegoers daily will find themselves reaching for tax pennies for the first time when they buy tickets priced under 40 cents. Under the tax law, the new defense tax must be paid by the public, not absorbed by the theaters.

BOB HOPE JAMS MET AT EVERY SHOW WITH GALA BILL

Audiences Join In Celebration

By PEGGY DOYLE

Bob Hope, hottest thing at the boxoffice right now, knoked up traffic in the vicinity of the Metropolitan Theater, caused an unprecedented jam at ticket windows and had customers rocking the house Friday with their exuberant hilarity.

Through it all, the one-time hoofer who's got 22,000,000 listeners on the ropes whenever he pulls a gag on the air remained cool as ice. He's got a way with an audience like Dr. Cyclops with the humans he reduced to doll-size. They're like willing zombies in the palm of his hand. Their timing is only matched by his, and he even pauses deliberately to let them take the gag right out of his mouth.

The laughs come so continuously and clamorously that unless you're a Hope radio-fan with an ear attuned to his glib wise-cracking you'll miss half the fun.

But not yesterday's opening audience. They might have rehearsed with the show, they were so perfectly conditioned to the quipping of their Public Comedian No. 1. They never missed a cue and their continuous approval threatened every now and then to shiver the chandeliers to bits.

One of these times was when those incredible glamour girls, Brenda and Cobinna, got curious out loud about the widely publicized charms of Hope's co-star in the Met's current featured film, "The Ghost-Breakers."

"What's she got that we haven't got?" they wanted to know, a little querulously.

"Nothing," retorted Hope, "only she groups it better."

Regardless of their questionable s a. rating, the girls went over big with the audience. The West End's Jerry Colonna, with his burlesque vocalizing and again in a radio skit with Bob and Jack Hope, was another unanimous audience favorite.

Dolores Reade, who is Mrs. Hope and lovely to look at, singing "Imagination" and "Too Romantic," got a big hand, Hope's clowning as she sang the latter number particularly delighting the customers.

George Tapps, dancing star of "I'd Rather Be Right," with Bob Hope in a dance routine, and Hope in a final roundup that made parting such sweet sorrow for his palm-blistered devotees, closed the show to end all record-breaking shows.

Realizing that you can't get enough of Hope these days, the Met's "The Ghost-Breakers" is presenting him on the screen when he's absent from the stage. He and Paulette Goddard are starred in a honey of a spook comedy.

CONFERENCE IN JAIL—William Lundigan, Virginia Bruce and George Brent discuss their problems in this scene from "The Man Who Talked Too Much," coming Thursday, July 4, to the Paramount and Fenway.

Para-Fenway Holiday Bill

Two major first-run screen productions headline the special holiday week program scheduled for Paramount and Fenway patrons, starting Thursday.

"The Man Who Talked Too Much," Warner's expose of illegal law practices employed to protect vicious criminals, co-stars George Brent and Virginia Bruce with Brenda Marshall, Richard Barthelmess and William Lundigan.

Sharing holiday honors will be "Manhattan Heartbeat," unusual melodrama dealing with modern young love on a budget, are featuring Joan ... with the new screen team of Robert Sterling and Virginia Gilmore.

"The Man Who Talked Too Much" turns the glaring spotlight of publicity upon the shrewd, tricky legal counsellors who enlist their specialized services on the side of the underworld. It reveals the unethical tactics by which gangdom's mouthpiece manages to keep their gun-crazed, murdering clients out of the death house.

George Brent is cast as a small town lawyer who becomes the smoothest criminal mouthpiece of his day. Virginia Bruce is the girl whose love and loyalty bring an end to Brent's dangerous career. Brenda Marshall and William Lundigan are two innocent sweet hearts who become victims of a vicious network of intrigue.

Olympia Features 'Lillian Russell'

"Lillian Russell," 20th Century-Fox film production based on the life and loves of "America's most beautiful woman," with Alice Faye in the title role, and "Primrose Path," with Ginger Rogers playing a tawdry characterization skilfully, are the Washington Street Olympia film attractions.

LOUISE WELLINGTON RANNEY, who becomes the wife of Robert Thayer at a socially outstanding wedding today in Weston, looked so much like a bride at one of her pre-wedding parties this week that a wide-eyed high school girl in the throng of dancers at the night club went over to her table and asked for her and Bob's autographs . . .

Louise was all in white, a silk jersey gown, with small wristlets of white flowers, and a shoulder length veil of filmy lace over her dark hair . . . The party was a supper dance at Ten Acres in Wayland, attended by all the bridal party, and reached an enthusiastic climax when the Republican returns from Philadelphia were announced . . . The whole crowd stood up to drink a champagne toast to Willkie and then sang "God Bless America."

Earlier that day Louise had presented her bridesmaids with lovely diamond lovers knot brooches which they wore on their evening gowns . . .

For her wedding in Weston's First Parish Church, Louise is wearing a gown of white tulle made with long sleeves puffed at the shoulders, heart shaped neckline and a fitted bodice with a full skirt and long train . . . Her tulle veil falls from a coronet of orange blossoms and she is carrying gardenias, lilies of the valley and stephanotis . . .

Amy Porter Ranney, the maid of honor, is wearing yellow marquisette with a cap of yellow veiling held in place by clusters of yellow sweet peas and larkspur to match the old fashioned bouquet she is carrying . . . The bridesmaids, Virginia and Margaret Ranney, Ruth Watters, Mrs. Nicholas Danforth, Jean Wilson and Jean S. Thayer, are wearing similar costumes in blue marquisette . . .

Reception at Weston Estate

THE BRIDE is the daughter of Dudley Porter Ranney of Highways, Weston, and the late Mrs. Ranney (Margaret Wellington) . . . Her grandmother, Mrs. Louis B. Wellington, is receiving with the bridal couple at Highways, wearing a gown of gray and white silk with a lavendar flower hat . . . Mrs. Benjamin Thayer of Philadelphia, mother of the bridegroom, is wearing rose beige chiffon with a pastel flower hat . . .

Out of town guests at the wedding include Rev. and Mrs. Gardiner H. Shattuck (Mary Pickering Older) of Dalton, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Donald, Jr., (Nancy Viele) of Albany, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph B. Howland of Valley Forge, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. Warren K. Butler of Salem, Henrietta Craig Colgate of Flushing, N. Y., and Mr. and Mrs. Fitzwilliam Sargent, 3d, of Virginia . . .

The newlyweds will spend the summer at Vineyard Haven and in the autumn reside in Philadelphia where the bridegroom will continue his studies at the U. of Penn. Law School . . .

Valentine-Osborne Ceremony

IN THE ABSENCE of her father, David Osborne, who is connected with the American Hospital in Paris, Olivia Osborne is being given in marriage by her uncle, Charles D. Osborne, at her wedding to Joseph Willard Valentine this afternoon . . .

The ceremony is taking place at Auburn, N. Y., home of the bride's father . . . Daughter of the late Mrs. Dorothy Dexter Osborne, a Bostonian, Olivia made her debut here under the wing of her aunt, Mrs. Edward Wigglesworth Grew, and many Bostonians are taking part in the wedding . . .

The honor attendants, Mrs. John Augustus Griswold, Jr., and Hope Osborne, are wearing peach organdie gowns with large leghorn hats and carrying bouquets of larkspur and gerbera . . . The bridesmaids are Mrs. Augustin H. Parker of Sherborn, Mrs. F. Gorham Fuller, Jr., of Dover, Lorraine Graves of New York and Rosamond Underwood of Auburn . . .

The bride's gown of white chiffon is trimmed with old family lace to match her heirloom veil . . .

The reception is being given by Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Osborne at Buck Point Farm . . . Following their honeymoon the couple will live in Chicago . . . Mr. Valentine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Loring Valentine of the Windy City, attended Harvard with the class of 1938 and is well known in Boston social circles . . .

SUSAN STURGIS STRONG and Barbara Ann Paine, left to right, two of the season's prettiest debutantes, will serve as waitresses at the opening tea of the North Shore War Relief Bazaar in Swampscott, Monday afternoon. Miss Strong is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Strong of Needham and Miss Paine's parents are the Robert G. Paines of Weston.

Tea Will Open 3-Day Bazaar

The martial strains of a brass band and waving flags will provide an appropriate atmosphere for the opening tea of the North Shore War Relief Bazaar in Convention Hall, Swampscott, Monday afternoon.

Tea will be served outdoors from 3 to 5:30 as a special feature of the opening of the three-day affair, which will benefit the Paderewski Fund for Polish Relief, American Friends of France, and several other war relief organizations.

Mrs. Lawrence Coolidge of Hamilton will head the group of pourers who include Mrs. Richard C. Storey Mrs. Charles A. Proctor, Mrs. Harrison Gardner, Mrs. Henry H. Newell and Mrs. Alvin F. Sortwell, all of the North Shore.

Polly Harwood Joins Brides

Polly Harwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Harwood of Cambridge, becomes the bride of James Young Deupree, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard R. Deupree of Cincinnati, this afternoon in Christ Church, Cambridge.

Attending the bride as maid of honor, is her sister, Janet, a debutante this season, and Mrs. George Lincoln Dow, Jr., matron of honor. The bridesmaids are Bettie Deupree, Martha Pervere, Hope Halsey, Betty Strong and Amelia Payne, who entertained the bride and groom at a mint julep party following the wedding rehearsal last evening.

Polly, a graduate of Winsor School, made her debut in the 1938-39 season and attended Sarah Lawrence College. She belongs to the Junior League and Vincent Club.

MARGARET BUCKLEY ENGAGED TO WED

Mr. and Mrs. John McNamee of Arlington, announce the engagement of their daughter, Margaret Elizabeth, to Jerome C. Buckley, son of Mrs. Patrick M. Buckley of Cambridge.

Joan Grannis Is Bride

Wearing a gown of ivory satin with a long full train and tulle veil falling from a cap of Brussels lace, Joan Grannis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Appleton Grannis of Cambridge, is being married this afternoon to Samuel Hamilton Eaton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Eaton of Wakefield.

The 4 o'clock ceremony in Leslie Lindsey Memorial Chapel, is followed by a reception at the Cambridge Boat Club. Rev. Appleton Grannis and Rev. Phillips E. Osgood are officiating.

The two attendants, Mrs. Kenneth F. Graf (Mary Eaton) of Manchester, N. H., and Ruth Appleton Grannis, are wearing blue marquisette dresses with small natural straw hats trimmed with blue and fuchsia ribbons. They are carrying bouquets of blue delphinium and pick roses with fuchsia streamers.

Kenneth F. Graf, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, is best man, and the ushers are Robert Beckwith of Morris, Ill., Allen S. Hubbard, Jr., of Charlottesville, Va., Donald Snowden of New York, Richard T. Arnold, Lucius W. Evans and John W. White of Wakefield.

Mrs. Grannis is wearing a gown of beige chiffon, with brown accessories and a corsage of gardenias. Mrs. Eaton has chosen a costume of pale rose chiffon with brown accessories and gardenias.

The bride is a graduate of Kimberly School, Montclair, N. J., and Rogers Hall. Mr. Eaton is a Yale '37 alumnus and member of Chi Psi and the Elihu Club. After Aug. 1 the couple will be at home in Ipswich.

MEYER-HEMENWAY BRIDAL IN MILTON

Contrasting with Natalie Hemenway's white bridal costume at her marriage this afternoon to August R. Meyer, are the filmy yellow mousseline gowns worn by her attendants. Wreaths of fresh flowers in their hair and bouquets of yellow roses complete the outfits.

Natalie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hemenway of Milton, is a member of the Vincent Club and has been studying art ever since her debut in 1937. Mr. Meyer, son of Henry Meyer of Belmont, graduated from Harvard last week.

The wedding is taking place in the First Parish Church, Milton, with a reception at the Hemenway home.

THE MUSIC MAKER THE CENTER OF THE CROWD

Whether she's on vacation or at home, the girl who can play the piano never lacks friends.

People naturally gather round her when the music begins—for everyone loves snappy tunes. And, by a simple short-cut method, you can quickly learn to read music.

In your beginning lessons you follow a chart, picturing in "life-size" the most used part of the keyboard. With every pictured key is the note which is its symbol on the music staff, and when you slip the chart behind your piano keyboard you see at once what key to strike for each note.

The "mysterious" signs you see on your music are also quickly learned.

Our 24-page instruction book, a short cut to piano playing, includes the keyboard chart, explains musical terms, time values, flats, sharps. Gives tables of chords for easy accompaniments, the music and words of 6 favorite tunes for practice. Size of book, 8½ by 12 inches.

Send 15 cents in coins for our instruction book, a short cut to piano playing, to Boston Evening American Home Institute, 109 West 19th st., New York, N. Y. Write plainly your name, address, and the name of instruction book.

Cooking

Campfire Meals

By MARTHA LEE

Who says campfire meals can't please the fussiest? If you flavor up the food with a few easy tricks—have a good bed of embers—and stick to things that require about the same length of cooking time, you'll hear no complaints, not even from the pet fussbudget of the party.

There's no need to have the skill of a scout to build an adequate campfire. But it helps if you can clear away a shallow indentation in the ground, and surround it on three sides with stones, earth or sand, so that a grille can span across the top. Wait until the flames have been reduced to glowing coals before you try to cook anything on it.

Take along at least one old-fashioned, long-handled wire toaster (if you have two, one can be used for toasting bread or rolls while the other does duty broiling cube steaks, frankfurters or hamburger patties). A long-handled fork and a frying pan are also important tools of your equipment.

And there are suggestions for things to cook that can be "eaten from the hand" in real picnic style—no knives, forks or plates are necessary.

HUNTERS' STEAK ON ROLLS

Allow one cube steak for each roll. Arrange on old-fashioned double wire toaster; grill 1 minute on each side over hot embers of campfire. Dust with salt and pepper. Place in split, buttered hamburger roll (toasted first, if desired), and top with thin slice Bermuda onion. If you haven't a toaster, use a frying pan; when it's hot, add a bit of fat, and brown steaks quickly, 1 minute on each side.

MINUTE-MAN SPECIALS

Shape minute steaks to fit slices of bread. Crush 1 clove garlic and sprinkle with salt to absorb juice. Dust steaks lightly with seasoned salt. (This may be done at home, and the steaks packed with sheets of wax paper between them.) Grill them over the campfire embers, about 1 minute on each side, and place between slices of hot buttered toast.

CHILI MULLIGAN ON ROLLS

At home, place 3 tablespoons of fat in a metal measuring cup, then pack the cup full of chopped onion (for easy transportation to the picnic, place heavy wax paper over top and secure with elastic band). When ready to cook, empty onion and fat into frying pan and fry slowly 3 to 4 minutes. Add 1 pound of hamburger and brown meat. Pour in 1 can condensed tomato soup, 1 can red kidney beans, salt and pepper to taste, and ½ teaspoon chili powder, if desired. Cook for 10 minutes more. Serve on split buttered hamburger or frankfurter rolls, or on toasted bread.

HAMBURGER RABBITS

Prepare meat at home as follows: season hamburger with salt, pepper, minced onion and a little mustard. Form into thin flat cakes to fit hamburger rolls. Place each cake on square of waxed paper, wrap and pack in picnic basket. When ready to eat, brown hamburgers quickly in a little hot fat in frying pan; turn once and top with thin slice of soft American cheese. Continue cooking until cheese melts slightly into meat. Serve on split toasted and buttered hamburger rolls.

PEANUT CHOPS

Make up peanut butter sandwiches at home (fill them generously). Cut each sandwich in half and wrap in wax paper to pack in picnic basket. For cooking, spread the outside of the bread with butter, and brown the sandwiches quickly on both sides in a hot frying pan.

FRANKFURTER-SAUERKRAUT BAKE

Prepare this at home and reheat it over the campfire. Arrange in a covered kettle 6 frankfurters, 1 pound sauerkraut, 1 chopped onion, ½ cup chopped celery, 3 tablespoons butter and salt and pepper to taste. Bake in slow oven (325 deg. F.) about 2 hours. Wrap kettle in newspapers and take to picnic. Heat again over campfire. Place frankfurters in split, buttered frankfurter rolls; top with sauerkraut and eat.

Saturday, June 29

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY—You are bright, versatile, engaging in conversation but maybe not always deep enough in thought. You tend to touch lightly the surface of many interests rather than burrow deeply to gain a thorough knowledge of any one. Encourage concentration; develop a liking for research in your particular line. Patient effort will be most productive, and conducive to happiness. Your smile and initiative are infectious, use them!

'Mouse-Like' Wife Lauded

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

All power and all my respect to the little "mouse-like" wife, who is willing to let things drift with a faithless husband for the sake of her children.

I would give anything in my possession for a wife like that, and would exchange a dozen of the type like mine for one of her loyalty. I have a wife like the "other woman" in that case. This man evidently realizes what a jewel of a wife he has, doesn't want a divorce and is free to marry the siren.

Attention Mrs. Siren, if this man were really in love with you, he'd do everything to get a divorce. As it is, when he gets tired of you as a plaything, he'll turn back to the wife he honors and respects.

My answer refers to a letter published in your column some weeks ago. JUST A MAN.

Here's hoping that the "mouse-like" wife happens to read this gentleman's letter and may take what comfort she can from his admiration—"though never the twain may meet."

No, we never introduce anybody in this column. It's not a go-between, but sometimes it's a consolation to know that one has an admirer, even if his name or the state in which he lives is never revealed.

You Can Be Beautiful

New Perfume Is Thrillling In Its Effect on All

By ARLINE GOULD

IT'S TIME to bolster the victories of your springtime forays . . . time to make your principal conquest a forever-and-ever thing . . . and don't overlook by any chance the significant power of perfume in that last decisive move you make . . . because, though you're not the first one to realize it, you can let a new perfume help you through its unbeatable sorcery!

In this war-torn time, perhaps the last perfume to be created in Paris and shipped over here in quantities just big enough so you may have yours . . . is one that's literally amazing everyone who gets a whiff of it.

An authority has said about it that every once in a while a fragrance is created which brings an understanding of the part perfume has played down through the ages . . . that makes one forget it is a liquid in a pretty bottle, and realize that it has a soul, an adventuring, accomplishing soul.

There's a recklessness about this fragrance, an "I love life!" tempo that's expressed in its name . . . and you can't help being inspired with its insouciance and courage.

There is something pretty irresistible about this perfume. We can tell you that it's heady and light as champagne, but it isn't pronouncedly flowery. It will be one of those ageless, seasonless things that can go through the heat of summer or the cold of winter, and will only vary its charm and its potency with the effect of the weather on its rare undecipherable ingredients.

If you'd like to learn all about this brand new perfume, thrillingly named and as thrilling in its effect on you and everyone else . . . phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, week-days except Saturday, or write, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

THE NOMINATION of Wendell Willkie as a presidential candidate by the Republican party came from the very grass roots of this free country.

The choice of Senator Charles L. McNary as a vice-presidential candidate is equally popular, and is well calculated to strengthen the national ticket and augment the confidence and esteem in which it is held.

Mr. Willkie was not the choice of the politicians, and in fact the politicians opposed him as long as they could and dared.

Mr. Willkie was not even the first choice of the delegates.

But he was the overwhelming choice of THE PEOPLE, and the ground swell of public approval of Mr. Willkie had been rumbling from end to end of the country, and finally broke over the convention like a tidal wave.

And the politicians and the delegates were wise for once, and heard and heeded the people.

SELDOM in the political history of the United States has a presidential candidate come more completely and entirely from the people.

It is one of the most amazing and truly democratic events of our interesting and fascinating history as a nation.

Wendell Willkie was not a nationally known figure until quite recently, and in fact was not even a Republican until recently.

But somehow, millions of people suddenly and almost spontaneously became intensely interested in him, and realized he represented something very necessary and valuable to the country. They liked everything about the man, his looks, manner, voice and the friendly and determined cut of his jaw.

But particularly they liked his solid, matter-of-fact, mind-your-own business AMERICANISM.

Here was a man with complete faith and confidence in EVERYTHING American.

HE DID NOT BELIEVE the frontiers of free enterprise and individual opportunity in America were overrun and closed. He did not believe the future reliance of young people in America had to be in alien philosophies and forms of government.

Moreover, here was a man with vast and enormous experience in managing big and important things democratically, efficiently and beneficially.

And the country was suddenly and heartily weary and sick of having its government, the biggest and most important of all American affairs, run arbitrarily and autocratically by hysterical and emotional men of little or no experience and little or no faith in American ideals and principles and traditions and institutions.

The American people have been waiting, hoping and looking for a national leader with the qualities which they THINK WENDELL WILLKIE POSSESSES.

If he has these qualities as abundantly as the people think he has, it will not make any difference how quickly he has come to national attention or how recently he has become a Republican.

If he is as good an AMERICAN as the people think he is, he will be the instrument of restoring the practices of democracy which the people want restored and will resume the normal American ways of life and government the people want resumed.

IT IS HIGH TIME—and in good time, let us hope—that the American people have taken a hand and an interest in their own national affairs.

They compelled the Republican party to hold a free convention, and to permit the people a free choice of their own presidential nominee.

They have swept the Republican politicians and bosses out of the path of American progress and prosperity, happiness and peace.

Now let them sweep the arrogant, plutocratic and autocratic and completely undemocratic and UN-AMERICAN New Deal politicians and bosses out of their path.

The American people have insisted upon and GOTTEN a truly representative and democratic American presidential nomination from the Republican party.

Now let them elect a truly representative and democratic AMERICAN PRESIDENT and have a resumption of free and orderly and impartial and just government and an end of socialistic regimentation and dictatorship.

CLOTH ORDERS, totalling $27,234,468 and believed to be the largest of their kind in the nation's peace history, are announced by the War Department.

It is interesting to note that a very large part of this work will be done in New England, particularly in Lawrence, Boston, Uxbridge, Woonsocket, R. I., and Manchester, N. H.

These cities, long harassed by ruinous free trade treaties, have managed to retain their ability to serve the nation.

The current crisis gives them an opportunity to prove it.

On The Side

-:- -:- By E. V. DURLING

WHEN, where and why did the people of the United States get the idea lawyers were the best men to run the country. Or did the lawyers have the idea and with their well-known silvery tongues sell the idea to the citizenry. Anyway, I think our government suffers from a bad case of "toomany-lawyeritis." Thomas Jefferson once said of Congress: "That one hundred and fifty lawyers should do business together is not to be expected." And also: "How can expedition be expected from a body we have saddled with a hundred and fifty lawyers whose trade is talking."

"THE MAN who is difficult to buy for" is referred to in an advertisement. I'll bet a married woman thought that designation up. It is a petulant reference to some of us oversized boys who take sizes only a few places have. The most difficult place to buy things for the big bohunk type male is in the Far West. You know where it has been alleged "Men Are Men." Fact is you see more husky six footers in Jersey City, N. J., than in towns where the West begins and ends.

WHAT'S in a name? I don't know exactly, but it seems feminine names should match personalities and occupations. If the name given by fond parents doesn't suit, it should be changed. Glamour girls, "oomph" girls, actresses, show girls, swing band canaries should be named Margot, Sonja, Brenda, Carmenita, Joyce or Lana. Lana Turner and Sonja Henie, for instance. They should avoid such name atrocities as Mickey, Billee, Jackie, etc. Feminine columnists should be named Stephanie, Dorothea, Gabrielle, Antonia, etc. Novelists of course should be either Margaret, Elizabeth or Rebecca. Names which are all right for suburban domestic life but to be avoided by career women are Sarah, Muriel, Lucy, Ann, Ruth and Susan. Especially Susan.

WILL ROGERS, JR., son of the great philosopher, prefers to be called not Will but Bill. And not Junior. Wants to make a reputation of his own . . . Billy Rose is one of few left in U. S. A. deserving name of "showman." Mr. Rose insits all his showgirls be six feet tall or over. So if you are a tall girl and have suffered from being referred to as "overgrown," cheer up. Even you can be a glamour girl. By the way, how about a prize contest for a new word for "glamour"? Tall girl idea is not original with Mr. Rose. Burlesque King Billy Watson's "beef trust" show was featuring "big girls" thirty years ago.

IF SOME of the plumper females, usually pathetic figures at the beach, would put in as much time streamlining their figures as they do in trying to get a sun-tan they, too, could be glamourous. But you only have to lie still to get a sun-tan and figure streamlining means hard work. Besides the hefty girls would have to give up eating a dozen hot dogs a day and drinking giant malted milks. It has been said by some medical authorities that when a woman eats a lot it is a sign she is starved for love.

-:- MY DAY

HYDE PARK, June 29 — We had a most interesting time Thursday morning on the roof of the Educational Alliance Building, at 197 East Broadway, New York City. Even before we reached the roof, I was conscious of the vivid stream of life that always pulses in that particular building.

Crowds were standing out on the sidewalk and some big buses were loading groups of young people on their way to camp. One summer camp houses mothers and daughters, the other takes boys. Two weeks of country life there make a vast difference to these East Side youngsters.

Several hundred young people were sitting on the roof ready to go off in search of jobs. Job hunting in pairs is a new technique. It is easier to do when you are covering stores and factories in the neighborhood, with the idea of soliciting jobs for the whole group, for you are talking for all and not for yourself alone.

CO-OPERATION is proving successful. They are getting jobs, though not as many as they would like. Still to meet together and talk it over, to give each other pointers as to how to meet the employer and impress him, all helps to keep up hope—and hope is the basis of morale.

They are going to have an essay contest in a short time on "Why I Am Unemployed." It will be interesting to see what reasons they give.

Perhaps it will enlighten some of the rest of us who search for hidden economic reasons and wonder what has happened to those jobs which every youngster could look forward to thirty or forty years ago.

We drove up the East Side Parkway and I could not help thinking what a change there is today in that waterfront. Space for many people to sit and cool off on a hot summer evening and for games of every kind, with high nets to protect the onlookers from the balls. This is better social planning than we used to have, and both the Mayor and Mr. Robert Moses deserve our thanks.

I was back in the country about 4 o'clock in ample time to welcome my niece and nephew, Eleanor and Henry Roosevelt, and a young friend of theirs. They are spending a few days with me.

They had a swim, but it hasn't tempted me as yet, because the weather stays so cool, so we older ones went for a walk before dinner. Then I caught up on the mail.

After dinner, we listened to the news and the balloting at the Republican convention as it came over the radio. There is something a little unreal to me about all this political activity when the world seems toppling into chaos. Political memories seem to me so short. Votes and attitudes of yesterday are forgotten today.

WARDEN LAWES 'WARNS' WOOLLCOTT

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, June 29—Bill Fields, who manages Alexander Woollcott's lecture tours, wrote a letter to Warden Lawes of Sing Sing prison, asking permission for Woollcott to come to Ossining and inspect Lawes' dogs. The Warden, who had seen "The Man Who Came to Dinner," gave his permission. "But warn Woollcott," he added, "that if he breaks his leg up here, the only place in which I can put him up is the prison hospital."

SOME NEW DEALERS have launched a series of chain-letters urging the President to accept a Third Term nomination. Anthony G. Neary, of Philadelphia, started such a chain asking the recipients to invite six friends to write to Roosevelt at the White House, and tell him that the American people want him, need him, and that he must respond to their call . . . Whether he wants to or not, the President must respond to the call sent by Miss Louise Hack, who received one of those chain-letters in the devious course they took . . . Miss Hack is the chief of the White House switchboard, in charge of Roosevelt's phone calls.

THE POST of Co-ordinator of National Defense, Washington believes, will be assigned to a businessman whose initials are D. N. . . . The book which was to be written by Fritz Thyssen—the man who sponsored Hitler and then fled from Germany—will not be published . . . One of the passengers on the Clipper which brought Robert Montgomery back to America this week received no publicity because she was traveling incognito. She's Princess Baba, daughter of the Rance of Sarawak, and estranged wife of Bob Gregory, the wrestler.

TOOKIE HUNTER is the socialite who, seeking a theatrical career, found employment by working at the "De-Bunk-Her" concession at the Fair. Miss Hunter is one of the pajama-clad girls, resting on a bed behind a screen, and then thrown to the floor whenever a ball thrown by a customer hits the bull's-eye on the overhead target . . . This week Miss Hunter was discovered limping around Broadway. "What happened to you?" she was asked . . . "Oh, I was thrown out of the bed 19 times in a row," she groaned. "The feller who pitched those bulls-eyes hit 19 out of 20. He told us his name later—a funny name—Lon Warneke."

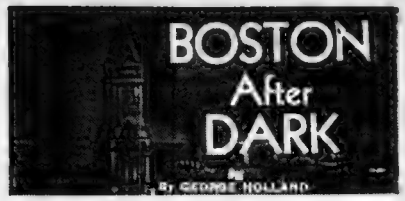
WHEN "Jupiter Laughs" opened in London, Dr. A. J. Cronin, the author, cabled his good wishes from the seclusion of his Beverly Hills home. His message read: "Very best of luck tonight, and God be with you, since I can't."



"THE BATTLE OF BOOKINGS" which observers of the local movie-house situation have foreseen, has progressed beyond the skirmishing stage, this column learned today . . . The "combatants" are the Keith-Boston and Metropolitan theaters, although—at this stage—the rivalry is friendly . . . The Metropolitan scored a great first victory with the acquisition of Bob Hope et al (Jerry Colonna, Brenda and Cobina, and Mrs. Hope) . . . And if records didn't fall at the Met on the Hope opening day (yesterday), the untimely rainfall shortly after dusk will be blamed as responsible . . . Early in the day, Police Commissioner Timilty's gendarmes had been called out to patrol the crowds in Tremont street.

BUT MANAGER HARRY MacDONALD of the Keith forces in this section has been very busy . . . Orrin Tucker and the baby-voiced Bonnie Baker have been signed to a contract calling for a Boston premiere on August 15 . . . Glenn Miller's consent has been given to an early Fall appearance at the Keith house, and Manager MacDonald, as he left yesterday for New York to confer on further bookings, felt sure that Kay Kyser and his men would be playing at the Washington street theater within a few months . . . It was the recent success of Maestro Kyser, at the same theater, which proved that Boston would respond in 1940 as it always has in the past, to "name" attractions.

Jack Miller and Mel Massucco were an alliterative combination at the Mayfair ringside, Mack being Bob Hope's press-agent (and Tony Martin's too) . . . Mr. Massucco is the picture editor of these here little, picture newspapers, and if an extra picture or two of Mr. Hope has happened to "make the picture pages, there's a simple explanation . . . Both Mr. Massucco and his newspapers received a "plug" in a Hope-Colonna comedy scene in the presence of 3500-odd theater-goers at the Met last night.

THE MAYFAIR WILL OFFER an augmented chorus of twelve with the new show opening Wednesday, but the feature of the chorus enlargement is that four of the choristers will be boys . . . The Mayfair is trying a new "twist" in the conga-rhumba fad . . . Featured in the show is the "Americonga Group" . . . These are all North American practitioners of the Latin-American dances, and they will act as instructors between shows . . . Toni Lane, Martin and Allan, and Darra and Korda will complete the program . . . The Cocoanut Grove's new featured vocalist, Miss Reese Gay, passed muster with high honors as she underwent the usual close scrutiny of an opening night audience in the new Melody Lounge.

IN SPITE OF THAT DUBIOUS-SOUNDING stage name—it's a takeoff on the type of songs she is featuring—the dainty and personable newcomer lives up to her advance billing, which was extravagant . . . But you will be interested to know that the very sophisticated youngster is none other than the former Marice Gordon of—

GREENE RETURNS TO WORK SOON

By Harriet Parsons

Richard Greene

Pinch-Hitting for Louella O. Parsons Who Is on Vacation

HOLLYWOOD, JUNE 29—The very popular Richard Greene goes back to work at last after four months of inactivity, due to illness. He'll star in "Not for Glory," the story of Capt. Don Alcock, the British aviator, who, with Lt. Arthur Brown, made the first transatlantic flight in 1919. The two war pilots flew from Newfoundland to Ireland in an old Vickers tomter, an amazing achievement. They were also pioneers in campaigning for increased air strength in England.

On July 8 Greene and Brenda Joyce, who will be his leading lady in "Not for Glory," depart for New York as passengers on a steamliner making its maiden voyage. From New York they go to Baltimore for the premiere of "Maryland." Thus it will be about the middle of July before they are back in Hollywood and ready to face the cameras at 20th Century-Fox.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: C. B. De Mille has cabled Madeleine Carroll in Madrid requesting her to return in time for the August 1 premiere of "Northwest Mounted Police" in Ottawa, Canada. He has reservations for her on the Clipper and if she doesn't use them there's no telling when she'll be able to get back; Cesar Romero left the hospital yesterday; Brenda Marshall is home from a visit to the boy friend, Bill Holden, on location in Tucson, Ariz., with the "Arizona" troupe.

LIZ WHITNEY, Zasu Pitts and Liza Wilson drove up to Newhall and spent the afternoon with former great cowboy star, William S. Hart, who lives in retirement on his ranch. Seems Liz and Bill are pals and she visits him often; Carole Lombard and Clark Gable are planning to buy a ranch in Arizona for a between-flicker hideout; the Andrews sisters went Hollywood t'other day—they spent the afternoon dunking themselves in Edgar Bergen's pool; romantic diners-by-candlelight: Dick Foran and his socialite heart, Jayne Larkin; my favorite movie star, Daisy, the personality pooch of the "Blondie" series, may go on a flying cross-country P. A. tour for the Red Cross.

GENE RAYMOND leaves Monday for San Francisco to make an appearance in connection with his comeback film, "Cross-Country Romance." He'll stay on a couple of days to see the fair, but will be back to spend the Fourth with Jeanette; Jon Hall hospitalized after that explosion on the "Kit Carson" set was allowed to go home yesterday, but picture will still be held up because now Leading Lady Lynn Bari has the flu.

TWO-MINUTE STORY

MARY LANE told the taxi driver to wait and walked along the avenue scanning the numbers. The day was hot, and with Junior tugging on one hand and small Louise on the other, it was difficult to look serene and composed.

Fifty-six, fifty-eight, she read, then the nert place must be sixty. It was. Climbing the few steps to the front porch she firmly pushed the bell.

THE DOOR OPENED. A tall blonde appeared and looked inquiringly at her callers.

"Does Elise Billing live here?" asked Mary.

"Yes," replied the blonde, "I am Elise Billing. Won't you come in?"

Mary and the children entered and, without hesitation, Mary began. "These children belong to you. You see when you stole my husband he forgot to bring Junior and Louise with him. I am sure he means to support them so I have brought them here. Please be careful of their diets and watch Junior's temper. It is pretty fiery like his father's. Tell my husband I have gone home to Montana."

Turning quickly, Mary left the house closing the door firmly behind her.

"Come back, come back!" cried a terrified voice. "You can't do this; I had no idea. I wouldn't be tied to two kids on a bet. I'll never look at Jim Lane again."

"Well, have Jim bring them out to Montana then. I've only 15 minutes to catch that train."

WITH FEAR in her heart but courage in her tread, Mary sped down the street to the waiting taxi. The train was just pulling in as a man rushed up, imploring:

"You can't leave us flat like this. Please Mary give us another chance. Elise 'phoned me at the office. Turn in your ticket and let's go home."

Mary smiled slyly at her husband. "I did not have any ticket," she meekly replied.

LISTEN, WORLD! By Elsie Robinson

STICK AROUND for half a century and you'll notice some mighty peculiar changes in this U. S. A. Time was when we Yankees, particularly the younger generation, prided ourselves on the fact that we Could Take Whatever Was Handed Out.

Action was our Favorite Dish. If risks didn't come our way naturally, we went out looking for them. Never mind if they were dangerous . . . never mind if they didn't pay dividends—bring on your fireworks, regardless! That was the "American Way"—the original American Way—our greatest pride and glory.

NOW, this, as I see it, was the way Nature intended a young and lively people to act. If young blood hadn't acted that way, the race would still be pollywogging around in the primeval ooze.

But, alas and alack, along came prosperity with its padded seats and curb service. So what? Do we want risks today? We do N-O-T! Instead, we clamor for security, with all the perils of life eliminated 'n' gobs and gobs of steel-riveted guarantees in their place!

A progressive idea? Maybe—provided you're so ancient that your arteries have hardened, your arches fallen and your upper 'n' lower sets are all shot. But as a policy for a young and up-and-at'em nation it's a shameful sell out.

WHY SHOULD HUSKY YOUTH OR INTELLIGENT MIDDLE AGE PREFER OR EXPECT SECURITY, MUCH LESS HAVE IT HANDED TO THEM ON A SILVER PLATTER? WHERE'S THE RED BLOOD OF WHICH WE WERE ONCE SO PROUD? WHERE'S THAT YANKEE INITIATIVE AND TWO-FISTED WALLOP?

ONE HEARS many a smug snort, these days, over the sappiness and stupidity of Britain and France in letting Germany beat them to the punch. But has it occurred to us that we Americans may also be lacking in certain assets which are even more valuable than fast planes and big guns?

How long is it since we overhauled our fighting spunk . . . our pioneer hardihood . . . our lusty independence?

IT'S TIME WE CLIMBED OUT OF THE HAMMOCK AND FACED A FEW BEARS FOR OURSELVES!

First Prize

By Helen Christine Bennett

THEY said Old Scott Prentice was an honest man. I suppose they are still saying it. But if Old Scott hears it he shakes his gray head. "A man can be honest just so long," he says cryptically. And only four persons know what he means.

The Cast of Characters in "First Prize"

SCOTT PRENTICE, a soap manufacturer who is honest, even when running a contest.
JOHN CARADINE, who knows about Prentice soap and wins a prize.

The day it began Old Scott's factory seethed with excitement. Old Scott made soap, good soap, better than his father had made, and that was better than his father had made before him. The town depended on the soap factory. There had not been a strike in 70 years.

This morning Old Scott came in humming. It was spring. Durand and Smith, his ad man and his sales manager, would be waiting for him with news of the contest. Old Scott regarded the contest as an ultra modern innovation! It was Prentice's Laundry Soap's first. When he came into his office the two men rose and stood, silent.

"Well, well," he boomed, "speak up! What lucky woman gets the first, the 500? Where's she live—say, what's the matter with you two guys, dumb?" Durand spoke up.

"The judges decided yesterday. And, well you know, Mr. Prentice, to keep this thing on the level we requested no signatures. The letter was unsigned and the name and address put into an enclosed, sealed envelope."

"Of course, I know that. What on earth are you going over it for?" Durand gulped.

"Well, there were 100,000 odd letters. And the judges picked 55,657 for the first. You read it. When the girls hunted up the name—"

"Get on will you? Who is she?"

"That's just it. It isn't a she. Letter 55,657 was written by a man!"

Old Scott sagged forward. The color left his cheeks.

"A man!" he echoed. Now who'd have thought of that? What we goin' to do? That comes of your modern ways—sealed envelopes with names! You get me out of it, hah!"

"You wouldn't consider giving it to him?" offered Smith.

"What, give a man who writes about washing clothes five hundred? Print his picture—what does he know about washing clothes anyhow? No laundryman admitted, contest said so. How's he know about clothes?"

"He washes them," admitted Durand. "You read the letter."

"Yeah and a darn fine letter it was—for a woman. But a man doing the family wash—yah!"

"He explains it. Just look at this. "The signature John Caradine was followed by a P. S.

"Maybe you wonder why I do the family wash. I lost my job six months ago. I couldn't get another but my wife fell into one. So I keep house for her and the three youngsters. Your soap is good."

A RUINED PLAN

"Heh, lost his job! But he never looked for another. Three kids and their mother working while their father washes clothes. Yan!"

"He seems to feel rather apologetic about it," said Smith, "or why explain?"

"He feels—what in h—— do I care what he feels? He's knocked our contest into a cocked hat. People would laugh, laugh at Prentice's Home Laundry Soap—where's the fellow live?"

"Little town down in the corner of the State. Mr. Prentice I wish you'd go down."

"Hah, go down to see a fellow that does the family wash and lets his wife work! Not much!" There was more, very much more. When Old Scott ran out he roared.

"Well, what you waitin' for? Get the car."

"Of course," said Smith, "you might just forget this letter."

"Forget it? Can't forget it. How about the judges? And 'taint honest. This factory has run fair and square for seventy years. Say you helped Durand get me into this mess. You come, too."

When the big car swung through Taylorville down to the white clapboard house John Caradine had put into his wife's name, John was cheerfully whistling as he hung white clothes on a line in the neat backyard. He wore denim overalls and jacket and his dark hair stood up in the wind. As he saw the men get out he came forward.

"You John Caradine?" grunted Old Scott.

"Yes, I am. Won't you step inside?" He led them across the porch into a clean living room.

THE WINNER'S STORY

"Came about that letter of yours about soap," growled Old Scott. "I'm Prentice. I own the factory. These fellows are Smith, sales manager, and Durand, my ad man. The judges picked your letter as first." John Caradine sat up straight

"W-what?" he gasped.

"Yeah. And just look at the fix you've put us in. How can we advertise a soap for housewives and give the first prize to a man. A man! What you washin' clothes for anyhow?"

John Caradine's head went up with a jerk.

"That's none of your business as I see it. But I don't yearn to do the family wash. The plant here closed down six months back. I went everywhere to get another job, and couldn't. Then I fell sick. Before I got well one of the teachers in the school here got sick, too, and Ethel, that's Mrs. Caradine, took her place. We own our home. I keep on writing letters and hoping. I can't get around a lot because I have to give Ethel a hand and the kids are young. The 3-year-old's asleep upstairs now. Now you know why I do the wash. And if you don't like it you can lump it."

"Hrrh," Old Scott cleared his throat. "Why don't you say something?" he demanded, turning testily to Durand.

"Mr. Caradine, that was a fine letter," said Durand. "But you can see that it would embarrass us. Mr. Prentice was wondering if there is a way out. Would you, could you let us print the letter as if your wife had written it?"

Caradine's jaws shut with a snap.

"No, I won't. My wife never used your soap. After I started I got it because I saw it advertised. And it was so much better than the soap she had used, cheaper, too, I kept right on. I've told a lot of people about it. They'd know it wasn't the truth.

"WE'RE HONEST"

"And—I don't like it. It isn't honest. I won't do it. What did you come here for anyway? You could have given the prize to someone else, I'd never had known."

"The Prentice Soap factory is on the square," roared Old Scott. "We're honest—" his voice dropped. "Kind of got that fever yourself, boy. It wouldn't be the truth, eh? What did you work at?"

"Foreman in charge of repairs, machinery, carpenter work. We made cabinet stuff, overexpanded and went down. We hung on until we couldn't hang on any longer."

"We hung on, what'dye mean?"

"I had a block of stock, all my savings."

"Oh."

"Say, Mr. Prentice, I can see your point. I just wrote that letter to fill in time. I thought I might get $5. But I can't give up that five hundred; I can't. If you hadn't told me about it—but you have told me—" he stopped. A tall slender woman in her mid-thirties stood in the doorway. "Come in Ethel. My wife, gentlemen. Mr. Prentice has just told me my letter won first prize."

"I can't give up that five hundred," John Caradine said. "If you hadn't told me about it —but you have told me . . ."

"John! Why John, that's five hundred dollars!"

"But Mrs. Caradine," said Durant, "Mr. Prentice feels that for a MAN to win—"

"I see. But we have just got to have the money. Don't you compromise, John."

"I'm not compromisin', honey."

Old Scott struggled to his feet. "Who wants you to compromise?" he shouted. "But do you want your husband's picture in all the papers, with his letter—in all the soap ads? Do you, hey?"

"No I don't. Not because we are ashamed of it, John and I, but because it might hurt John in his work. If people weren't so silly. Why is washing just a woman's work? Why should any man be ashamed of doing it? You're not ashamed, are you John?"

"Not a bit," he grinned. "Still it does put Mr. Prentice on the spot. Say, couldn't you just give us the money—"

"MESS O' LIES"

"No I can't. I've said the letter will be printed. The judges, they know all about it. But I tell you what I can do. I can make you an employe of the Prentice factory in the repair service, and that throws you out. I'll give you whatever you got at your old job and I'll move you."

"An the five hundred?"

"Your job began some months ago," grinned Prentice. "You—you've been conductin' experiments for us. Fix it up Durand."

"We'll tell the judges the writer of that letter connected with the company after mailing it," purred Durand. "The second prize letter will move up to first. We won't print yours at all. You collect arrears of five hundred from the time you went on the payroll. Just keep quiet about it. Can you do that?"

"We can," said John Caradine. "Thank you, Mr. Prentice."

"Mess o' lies," moaned Old Scott. "Beginning to lie to the public after 70 years." He got up, beamed on John and Ethel.

"When you two get ready to come over—whenever Durand fixes it—he'll find you a nice home like this. He and Smith got me into this. Hurrump. G'bye."

"Mess o' lies," he groaned as Smith took the wheel. "Nice young couple, ain't they? Bet he's a good worker. Say, look at those clothes on that line in the yard. White! That's Prentice's Home Laundry Soap, and don't you forget it!"

THE END.

SAFETY OF NIGHT DRIVING DEPENDS ON GOOD LIGHT

"Light is essential for the safe movement of fast automobile night traffic. The accident records bear out this fact," said L. J. Schrenk, general superintendent, Public Lighting Commission, Detroit.

There are few people better qualified than Mr. Schrenk to speak on this subject because of the splendid accident reduction record made in Detroit, under his direction, during the past four years.

"There are more than 100 persons alive today who would have been dead if etiquette vitibility had not been provided during the past three years on 31 miles of Detroit streets where the fatality rate was the highest," he says: "Had these streets been lighted six years ago and had the volume of traffic been equal to today's, an additional 100 lives would have been saved."

Before the new lighting was installed, the night to day fatality ratio in Detroit was 7 to 1, and the installation of modern high-visibility lighting reduced the ratio to 1.3 to 1.

The basic factor in night traffic safety is to be able to see, quickly with certainty, a sufficient distance to avoid colliding with fixed or moving objects and that light must be provided for both drivers and pedestrians.

Mr. Schrenk declared that the street lighting system on most of our city streets today were designed and installed for police protection in the horse and buggy age, and are 20 to 25 years behind the needs of modern traffic.

He further said that Detroit has increased the total light output of its entire street lighting system by 200 per cent in 10 years for an increased expenditure of only 25 per cent.

Changes Made By Goodrich Co.

Reorganization of duties of the executive sales staff of the tire division of The B. F. Goodrich Company is announced by Charles B. O'Connor, general sales manager of the division.

A new post, merchandise manager of the division is created and Joseph A. Hoban, former manager of retail sales is appointed to it.

Wilson C. Bray, manager of truck and bus tire sales is named assistant sales manager of the division, succeeded by Joseph E. Powers, who has been the company's New York district manager.

Willis C. Rheingrey, formerly manager of the automobile tire department is named assistant merchandise manager, succeeded by Chester T. Mor'edge. Guy Gundaker, Jr. is appointed manager of budget sales and L. A. Rosenberg, operating manager of the retail department.

Texaco Opens All-Night Service

A comprehensive and revolutionary all-night service through their network of stations along the national highways was announced by Texaco.

The new all-night service will be in effect during the summer touring season and marks the first coordinated and uniform attempt to bring to night drivers the same auto service conveniences and personal comfort facilities available during the day.

The night driver previously took his chances against motor or tire trouble during the lonely hours of the night with no facilities for service nearby. With the institution of Texaco's all-night service along the main highways, numerous and easily reached service stations eliminate these annoying delays.

BACK ROAD TOUR HAS INTEREST

The sixth tested tour in the Boston American's series, while short in mileage is ideal for the long week ends. Fred Hamlin, manager of the Boston Auto Club, and J. Leo Sugrue, automobile editor of the American, headed the 1940 Nash Ambassador model test car north over some of the less heavily traveled highways.

We left the city over the Northern artery, followed route 28 through the Fellsway to the junction of route 125 at Andover, the seat of Phillips Academy for boys and Abbott Academy for girls.

Continued on route 125 to Haverhill, the "Queen Shoe City of the World," with over 100 factories connected with the shoe industry.

The Kimball Tavern, built in 1709, open for inspection from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m., is passed on route 125, leaving Haverhill on route 108 through Exeter, the home of Phillips Exeter Academy, the first educational institution to be chartered in the State of New Hampshire in 1781. It is now one of the best known schools in the country.

FINE LAKE PORT

We followed route 13A and 16 to Rochester, and route 11 to Alton, which is located on the Merry-Meeting River, which with the years has reversed the direction in which it flows.

Route 24 to Wolfeboro, the largest town on Lake Winnipesaukee, the home of Brewster Academy, a fine lake port with recreational facilities, and a busy little summer town attracting trade from a large adjoining section.

Route 107 through Melvin Village, a small hamlet of unsurpassed beauty on the shore of the lake, with Ossipee Mountain in the background.

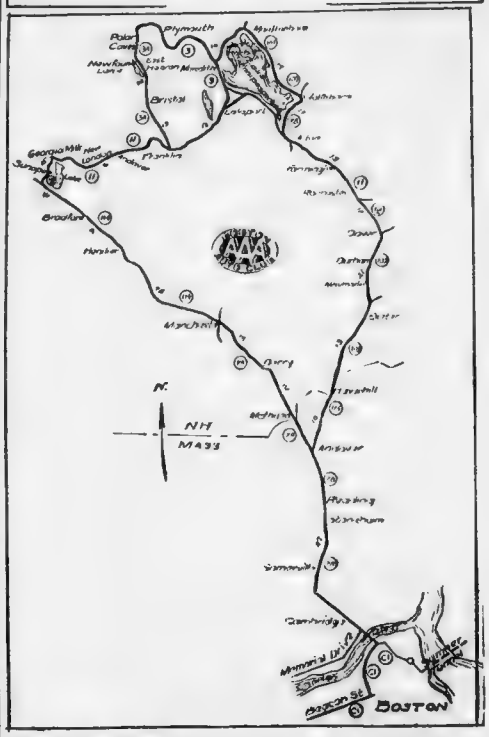
Continuing on route 107 to Moultonboro, route 25 to Meredith, route 3 to the Weirs, returning on route 3 to Plymouth, a delightful village located on a hillside near the Pemigewasset and Baker rivers.

BACK TO BOSTON

From Plymouth on Routes 25 and 3A to Newfound Lake, and continuing south through Bristol to Franklin, from Franklin west on route 11 to Sunapee Lake.

Our return trip took us through Manchester via routes 103 and 114, and Boston via route 28.

Lake Tour Over Back Roads



SHORT IN MILEAGE, this is ideal trip for long week-ends due to the unlimited opportunity for interesting stop-overs including three of New Hampshire's most beautiful lakes.

SUCCESS OF STUDEBAKER BUILT ON SIMPLE CREED

Harry B. Liggett, Studebaker distributor, is presenting to his dealers and employes a pocket-sized booklet relating factually the history and development of the Studebaker Corp. from its inception in 1852.

The enterprise of today, the book recalls, grew from the simple blacksmith shop started by Henry and Clem Studebaker on a capital of $68.

Paul G. Hoffman, president of Studebaker, in a foreword to the booklet says the basis of the company's continuous operation over a period of 88 years lies "in a simple code of ethics which has given the company the continuing loyalty of those who built its products and those who used them."

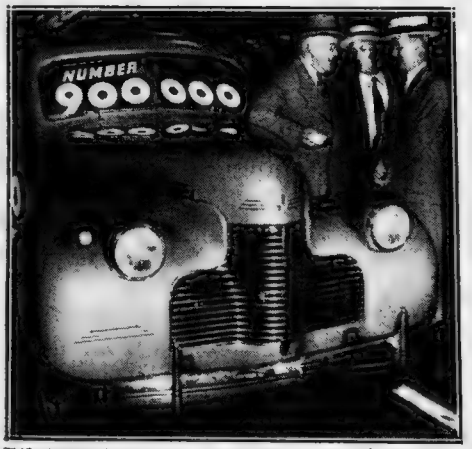
The creed enunciated by J. M. Studebaker, one of the five brothers—"Always give a little more than you promise"—sets the theme of the booklet, said Mr. Hoffman.

The Studebaker family set up its first business venture near Gettysburg, Pa., in 1830. Eventually, two of the five brothers, Henry and Clem, moved to South Bend, Ind., where in 1852 they opened their first blacksmith shop.

The original equipment of the shop consisted of two forges. Six years later, another brother, J. M., was persuaded to leave a profitable California business and come to South Bend, and invested $3000 in gold nuggets in the prospering business the two brothers had developed.

The booklet records racing, testing and engineering contributions made by the Studebaker people.

Chevrolet Sets Another Record



THE 900,000TH CAR of Chevrolet's 1940 model was built less than one month after the 800,000th. Left to right beside the car are M. E. Coyle, general manager of Chevrolet; C. E. Wetherald, general plant manager, and Arnold Lenz, assistant general plant manager.

Chrysler Extends Training Plan

DETROIT, June 29—G. C. Strickler, Boston regional service manager, is here attending a three-day conference, and announced an even more complete mechanical training program for Chrysler dealers and their service personnel will be continued throughout the balance of the year.

Factory officials and regional managers from every state headed by H. J. Nestle, general service manager are formulating future plans and revising past accomplishments here in considering plans for the 1941 year.

Whitman Residents To Get Night Train

Residents of Abington and Whitman were assured of a night train today through action of the state Public Utilities Commission. At the same time, the commission refused to force the New Haven railroad trustees to put back on schedule trains which were dropped May 6 between Boston and Brockton and Boston and Norwood.

The night train to Abington and Whitman will leave Boston at 9:35 p. m. and connect with a train at Braintree at 10 p. m.

TENER FETE GUEST

HAVERHILL, June 29—Ex-Gov. John K. Tener of Pennsylvania, pitcher for the Haverhill baseball club in 1895, and Bishop Daniel F. Desmond of Alexandria, La., were among today's home-coming guests to the tercentenary pageant.

VETS URGE WOMEN'S SPY CORPS

NORTHAMPTON, June 29—A gigantic, nation-wide, feminine counter-espionage corps, to be organized by wives and daughters of America's millions of war veterans, was urged in a resolution adopted here today by the 43d annual state convention of the United Spanish War Veterans.

The resolution, offered by Miss Alice Henderson of Swampscott, called on womenfolk of veterans to work with G-men in ridding the United States of Fifth Columnists and other disloyal and subversive groups.

State Adjt. Richard Bowles of Wollaston offered a resolution urging exclusion of aliens from jobs connected with the national defense.

He presented another resolution calling for compulsory military service on a selective basis.

Today's proceedings were to close with a colorful parade tonight.

Election of officers tomorrow will wind up the convention.

A highlight of today's business meeting was a pledge of U. S. W. V. service to President Roosevelt and the nation by Patrick Gannon, president of the Boston unit.

Frank J. Nagle of Stockton offered a resolution urging award of special medals for enlistment in U. S. armed forces.

Hub Cupid Sets New June High

With 1083 intentions filed during a period of 29 days, June went into history at the close of municipal business today as the busiest month in the 320 years the Boston registry of marriages has been in existence.

City Registrar Jenier A. Burke credited the all-time record to improvement of business.

Until now, Burke said, June 1917, when 1064 couples filed intentions to wed, had held the record. Then hundreds of service men, anticipating early transfer overseas, hurried to take brides.

The year 1917 still holds the record for the busiest six months period in history with 5464 couples filing marriage intentions.

For the first half of this year 4220 couples filed.

Boston After Dark

—By GEORGE HOLLAND—

magine!—Bangor, Maine . . . Several years ago, a Bangor resident named Dr. Frank H. Gordon cut a wide swath in Maine industry as the boss of a glamorous new industry . . . He became known as "the silver fox king," and stories of that period relate that Dr. Gordon was credited with having amassed a few million by breeding silver foxes . . . Among his fox farms was one in Marlboro.

THINGS WENT NOT so well suddenly for the good doctor, and he moved to New York . . . Marice (Reese Gay) Gordon, now of the Covenant Grove, is Dr. Gordon's very charming daughter . . . Exclusive: The Boston Garden has appointed a musical and entertainment director, and the appointment could hardly have been more popular. The ubiquitous Joe Rubin won the important post . . . The Beachcomber's tremendous popularity has not abated an iota. The place was packed again last night . . . As the managerial headaches at the tropical rendezvous have been reduced largely to choosing which parties to seat, both Proprietor Tom Mason, and his invaluable right bower, Brother James, decided to slip away for an hour or two last night . . . The mistake they made was that both chose the Mayfair . . . It was a comical meeting, but Big Brother Tom was the one, and a bit shamefacedly at that, who returned to the crowded precincts of their own jernt.

By JACK CONWAY

HARRY I. DAY has furnished me with two of his remarkable pictures of finishes of greyhound races at Wonderland Park. The pictures were taken of the same race. One of the pictures was made by a camera located on the outside of the track similar to the system used at horse tracks, while the other picture was taken from the inside of the track.

It is the first time that this has been done at either a horse or dog track.

There have been claims that when a picture is taken from the outside of the track that the outside horse or dog is favored, while it has been charged that cameras located on the inside of the track give the edge to the horse or dog running on the rail.

In order to get a perfect answer, Harry I. Day, who knows more about race track cameras than anyone else, set up two photo finish cameras at Wonderland Park, and had them shoot at the galloping greyhounds from opposite directions. Pictures published in this column today show that in each case the camera caught the same dog.

These particular pictures were called for to separate the third and the fourth dogs.

HARRY I. DAY says that one gets the most perfect finishes of races when shooting down at the dogs.

George Funk and Sheldon Fairbanks at Wonderland Park agreed to spend $15,000 for a special photographic house and equipment on top of the grandstand. Day moved his expensive cameras into this new home, and by the expertness of his pictures has added to the efficiency of the Revere racing plant.

Across the track on top of the judges' stand Day has another camera in action that takes the finishes from the inside of the track.

Race tracks continue to make progress in new mechanical equipment that is eliminating most of the old errors. The public is picture minded, and wants the best in photo finishes. This is why the Wonderland Park management installed the Harry I. Day camera.

There is an electrical timer attached to the Harry I. Day camera. It takes the time of every greyhound in the race. These Day Speed Ray Time Charts are an exclusive feature of the Wonderland Dog Special of the Boston Evening American that is on sale at the track each night. This edition also carries the official Day pictures of each finish.

The Day Speed Ray Time Charts were also a feature of the horse meeting at Narragansett Park. They are the most accurate story of a race. They have repeatedly proved that the electrical timer and camera are much more accurate than the human eye. When chart callers get past the fifth or sixth horse, they make frequent mistakes.

I FOUND DAN CARROLL at the Massachusetts Osteopathic Hospital in Jamaica Plain where he was operated upon for his tonsils, and where he is undergoing treatment for a sacro-iliac injury. It will be necessary for Dan to remain in the hospital until after July 4. When he is discharged from the hospital, Dan plans to go to Old Orchard, Me.

Despite the fact he is in bed, Dan is keeping in close contact with sports. He says Max Baer has a chance to win from Tony Galento, while he favors Bimelech to show the way to the field in the Yankee Stakes at Suffolk Downs on July 4.

Mack Picks Indians To Win A.L. Flag

NEW YORK, June 29 (INS)—Connie Mack, a yotuhful 78, who is as much a part of baseball as the ball, the bat or home plate, wants to amend today the forecast he made at the start of the season. At that time Connie startled the cognescenti by predicting the Yanks would not wil their fifth straight pennant. Now he says they not only will not win, but that they will be lucky to finish in the first division!

The grand oldtimer is bubbling over with enthusiasm about his newest rookie—one Porter Vaughan, a lefthander fresh off the campus of the University of Richmond—and, says Connie, "The greatest pitcher I've had come up since Lefty Grove came to the Athletics many years ago."

McCOY GORDON

HIT-RUN FAILS. Bennie McCoy of A's tagged out at second by Joe Gordon in game with Yanks. Bennie went down on hit and run sign from Bob Johnson but Johnson fanned, and Bennie was thrown out by Catcher Bill Dickey.

That's high praise, indeed, but listen to Connie:

"I've had some wonderful pitchers in my day, and I've been especially lucky with lefthanders. Waddell, Plank, Pennock, Grove and now this young fellow.

"Vaughan's not so fast as Grove, but he's fast enough. He's got a beautiful control, and he knows what it's all about. I tossed hi mright in against Cleveland recently, and he fanned nine of them in seven innings.

"Give me one or two more youngsters like that, and I'll breeze in with another pennant in the next year or two."

That's Connie for you—78 and building for the future!

How does the race look to him now and to what does he attribute the downfall of the Yanks?

"Well," he said, "I was inclined to favor Detroit for a while but now I must give a slight edge to Cleveland.

"That Boudreau and Mack of the Indians—they're the best second base pair in the league, and they have lots of power besides five fine starting pitchers—Feller, Harder, Allen, Milnar and Smith.

"The Tigers also have great power and two fine veterans in Bridges and Newsom as well as two god rookies, Newhouser and Gorsica.

"It's a pity that such a great team as the Red Sox hasn't got better pitching. As for the Yanks, I know from experience it's almost impossible for a club to keep wining for five years.

"They've all eased off a trifle and they miss Dickey's hitting and Gomez's pitching.

B. C.'S AL MORRO WINS A.A.U. DISCUS

FRESNO, Cal., June 29 (AP)—America's finest cinder path stars ring down the curtain tonight on the major 1940 track and field campaigns, with senior athletes of the A. A. U. attempting to surpass brilliant performances registered last night by the junior division.

The opening gun of the final night of the two-way meet brings together a host of the fastest sprinters in the country, including the youthful star of last night's show, Eddie Morris of Huntington Beach, Cal., Norwood Ewell of Penn State, Hal Davis of Silmas, Cal., Junior College, Mozel Ellerbe of Tuskegee, Ala., and others of renown.

Sharing honors with the 100-meter dash will be the 1500-meter run which drew a field of such aces as the veteran Glenn Cunningham, who is making a last stand on the comeback trail; John Munski of Missouri, Paul Moore of Stanford University fame, Gene Fenske running under the colors of the New York Athletic Club, and Blaine Rideout, the one-time flash from North Texas.

Team honors appeared destined to go to Coach Charlie Hunter's Olympic Club lads of San Francisco, who walked away with laurels in the junior meet last night.

Seven junior class records were smashed and one tied by the athletes last night. The junior class is restricted to athletes who have not won first places in the junior or senior meets.

Boston College's Alfred Morro, representing the Boston Athletic Association, carried the banner of the East Coast to glory in the junior discus throw when he tossed the platter 153 feet, 8 5-8 inches to win by more than a foot from a field dominated by West coast stars.

Other record breaking performances were turned in by James Kehoe of the Washington, D. C., Athletic Association, who ran the 800 meters in 1 minute, 51.2 seconds; Cliff Bourland, ineligible freshman at University of Southern California, who won the 400 meters in :47.4 seconds, Dick Browning of the Olympic Club, who won the 200 meter hurdles in 23.4; second, Carl McBaine of the Olympic, who ran the 400 meter hurdles in 52.3; Bobby Madrid, his team mate whose 15 minutes 21.7 second easily won the 5000 meters, and Stan Anderson's shotput of 53 feet, 6 inches, which broke the record in that event.

Yanks Must Hit .700 Pace to Win

NEW YORK, June 29 (INS)—With the season's half-way mark—the Fourth of July—just a few days off, the once great New York Yankees today were faced with the tough task of playing almost .700 ball to capture their fifth consecutive American League pennant. Recently returned from a disastrous Western junket, on which they lost nine out of eleven games and did not win a series, the McCarthymen now are lodged in fourth place, eight and one-half games behind the pace-setting Cleveland Indians.

NATS SHELL WILSON FOR 2 RUNS IN 1ST 23

Sox Get One Back

FENWAY PARK, June 29—Black Jack Wilson and Sid Hudson, a rookie from the Florida State League, were the mound rivals in the second game of the Sox-Senator series here this afternoon. Each pitcher was seeking his fifth victory.

There was this difference in their records, though. The Washington rookie has dropped nine decisions while Wilson has been beaten only once.

A crowd of about 5000 watched the tilt.

FIRST INNING

SENATORS — Case singled. Lewis grounded out to Foxx. Walker fanned. Bonura singled scoring Case. Travis singled Bonura stopping at second. Early singled, Bonura scoring and Travis going to third. Myer forced Early at second, Doerr unassisted. TWO RUNS.

RED SOX—Doerr singled. Cramer singled, Doerr stopping at second. Finney sacrificed, Hudson to Myer who covered first. Foxx walked filling the bases.

Williams forced Foxx, Bonura to Gelbert, Doerr scoring and Cramer pulling up at third. Tabor flied to Myer. ONE RUN.

Ens to Manage Indianapolis

CINCINNATI, June 29 (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds disclosed today that Jewel Ens, Red scout and former player and coach for the Pittsburgh Pirates, had been appointed manager of the Indianapolis Indians of the American Association.

Brown Twig Breaks Three Straight Jinx

When L. E. Steele's Brown Twig won Thursday's seventh race at Delaware, he became the first thoroughbred to win three consecutive races there since the meeting began. He is trained by Sydney Boniface of Bel Air, Md., a comparative newcomer to the conditioning business.

Ruined Red Sox

KID SWAT—Three shots of Charlie Gelbert, 34-year-old Washington shortstop, who has sparked the club to latest surge which includes victories over Browns, who beat Red Sox seven straight, and over Red Sox themselves, 4-3, in 10 innings. Gelbert drove in three of four Nats' runs with two doubles and single. Eight years ago, physicians said he'd never walk again, victim of a shotgun accident which tore away half of his foot. Gelbert was stellar World Series shortstop for Cardinals in 1930 and 1931. He suffered gunshot wound in leg in '32.

Miller Out As B's Face Brooklyn

BROOKLYN, June 29—Shortstop Eddie Miller was out of the Bees' lineup today after being hit on the left elbow in batting practice by Rookie Bob Williams.

When his arm later stiffened, Manager Stengel decided to use Alben G'ossop at shortstop. X-rays were taken to determine the extent of Miller's injury.

Bill Posedel and Curt Davis were the opposing pitchers in the second game of the series this afternoon, played before about 10,000 fans.

FIRST INNING

BEES—Hassett struck out. Sisti beat out a bunt. Moore bounced into a double play, Coscarart to Reese to Camilli. NO RUNS.

DODGERS—Reese doubled. Lavagetto bounced to Rowell and Reese was retired at third, Rowell to Sisti. Walker fouled to Berres. Medwick smashed a grounder off Posedel's glove and when Posedel threw wild past Hassett, Lavagetto raced to third. Phelps lifted to West. NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING

BEES—Ross struck out. West lifted a high foul to Phelps. Rowell was retired, Camilli to Davis who covered first. NO RUNS.

DODGERS—Camilli walked. Vosmik singled, sending Camilli to third, Coscarart looked at a third strike. Davis lifted to West. In deep center, Camilli scoring after the catch. On the throw in to the plate, Vosmik raced to second. Reese flied to Ross. ONE RUN.

Can't Wait Heads For Hollywood

After his big for the $20,000 Brooklyn Handicap at Aqueduct today, Myron Selznick's Can't Wait will head for Hollywood Park and some of those big California purses. With him are scheduled to go Arnold Hanger's veteran He Did, winner of five straight races, and Shakerman, Hanger's nominee for the $25,000 Hollywood Derby.

GARDNER AFTER 6TH

KEENE, N. H., June 29—Bob Gardner, 1939 dirt track champion, seeks his sixth victory of the season over the 15-mile route for big cars at the Saffold Park speedway here tomorrow.

OL' BUCK NEWSOM 'MAN OF WEEK'

Louis N. Newsom draws the International News Services' little brass ring this week for becoming the first major league pitcher to win 10 straight games this year.

But pay no attention to that Louis N. That's only for calling cards. To the baseball world he always has been and still is Buck Newsom, great right-hander of the Detroit Tigers.

Year in and year out Buck is the best bet in baseball to win 20 games. He has done it several times even when with the last place Browns.

Buck is one of the real characters of the game. As he says himself, "Old Buck talks a lot but he also does an awful lot of pitching."

The big fellow broke in with the Dodgers in 1929 after having spent a year with Macon and one with Wilmington. At that time he was a long, lean right-hander with a blazing fast ball, but no control and no knowledge of pitching.

Today he weighs well over 200, still has his fast one, good control and knows all the angles.

He was born in Hartsville, South Carolina, in a region that has turned out many a major league pitching ace.

Since then he has had a whirling career. After two years with the Dodgers, we find him at Jersey City, Macon Again, Little Rock, Chicago, Albany, Los Angeles, St. Louis, Washington, Boston and Detroit.

You may say that Buck's been around some. But please note that he learned a little something everywhere he went, and now the big good natured fellow is about as fine a pitcher as the game boasts.

In the old days he was just a thrower; now he's a pitcher. And a 20-game pitcher at that.

Will Baer Quit or Mix?

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., June 29 (INS) — "If we could only tell what is going on inside of that guy's head—"

Jersey Jones a smart, reasonably forthright publicity man and manager of fighters, stood today peering at Max Baer and voiced the foregoing befuddlement over next Tuesday night's 15-round battle between the tousle-hair ham actor and Mr. T. Anthropoid Galento, the eminent beer-hister.

That's as far as Jersey Jones would go in dwelling on the bout, but what he seemed to be trying to convey was and is that you never can tell whether Baer is going to fight or fold.

GALENTO FAVORITE

Baer looks good, appears to be confident and fairly shouts that he is burning up over things Galento is alleged to have said about him and his nearest of kin. So what? So Baer insists he is going to take it out of Galento's tough hide.

Observers stand around watching him work out quite impressively and listening to his almost unbroken flow of gab, and somehow wonder if they can believe him.

Galento will be the favorite, but if Baer could convince his listeners of his sincerity a few would switch to him automatically.

He really has more to fight with than Galento, when he wants to apply himself.

But he has been popping off for so long with such meager results that nearly everybody listens to him for whatever entertainment they can get out of it, then promptly forgets about it all and keep on stringing along with Galento's left hook—the great equalizer.

HAS TRAINED WELL

Baer has drilled religiously against that punch of Galento's. The former champion has far better sparring partners than Galento's and if he can be put into shape and be technically equipped for Galento, Jim Howell and Old Bingo Joe Banovic figure to do it for him.

The former fights Baer and roughs him, while the latter does little but peg left hooks.

Through more or less serious application, Baer has schooled himself to step inside the left and counter with a right. He doesn't expect to make the mistake of pulling away from the left, one almost certain way to get your intellect spattered.

But suppose Galento tags him anyway? Or, putting it more bluntly, will Baer quit or fight this time?

147's Will Give Spark To Medford Bouts

A promising lot of 147-pounders should give the fans plenty of anxious moments at Riverside Park, Medford, where the 101st Infantry will satge its first outdoor amateur boxing show of the season next Monday night under floodlights.

Seven entries have already been filed. These include James Pettie, Woburn; Mike Cocozza, Haverhill; Dave Davidson, Lawrence; Charlie Moore, Roxbury; Nat Commotta, Providence; James Mulligan, Lowell, and Dave Andrews, Lowell.

Competition will be in the 125, 135, 147, 160 and heavyweight classes. Entries may be sent to Frankie Moore, 34 Windsor rd., Medford.

Pneumonia Did It

Tony Weak, Godoy Says

NEW YORK, June 29 (AP) — Arturo Godoy, still looking as if he had been hit by a cleaver, sat at the ringside out at Madame Bey's training emporium and watched Tony Galento clown around in preparation for his fight with Max Baer Tuesday in Jersey City.

It had been eight days since the Chilean sampled Joe Louis' fists, but his left cheek bone still was puffed and hidden by sticking plaster, and there was a long, brown scar where a dozen stitches had been taken in his eyebrow.

LICKED TONY TWICE

Having fought and licked Galento twice, Arturo could not be expected to go into raptures about the Orange round man—and he didn't.

"I don't think he's so strong as when he fought me," he volunteered in his new found English. "They can't be so strong again after having pneumonia. My brother in Chile had it once, and he never was so good again.

"No, Tony don't hit like Louis. He hit me a left hook in our first fight that hurt, but he hits heavy punches, not sharp like Louis."

Whereupon Arturo proceeded to explode another theory about Tony, to wit, that it is useless to work on the Galento mid-section.

"I hit him once in the stomach in our first fight, and he didn't like it," Godoy recalled.

WEIGHS 248

Arturo said he couldn't make a guess on the winner between Galento and Baer, because he never had seen Max in action.

Galento jumped on the scales just before the workout and when the springs finally settled down again Tony grunted:

"Two hunnert forty-eight, and wit' my clothes on."

Pro Grid Ace Joins Army As Private

NEW YORK, June 29 (INS) — Gridiron Star Abel "Dave" Smukler neatly booted his chances at fame and fortune in professional ranks into the air today as he took up duties as plain buck private in the United States Army.

Smukler, former fullback at Temple University, later with the Philadelphia Eagles and scheduled to play this year with the Detroit Lions, enlisted a few days ago. He now is at Fort Slocum awaiting shipment to Hawaii where he will see service in the coast artillery.

His shift from Gridiron to army ranks is being protested by "Potsy" Clark, manager of the Detroit club, Fort Slocum officers revealed today.

Potsy, it was said, complained that he bought Smukler's contract for a "fat sum" and wants him out of the army.

German Bike Riders Deny Questioning By U. S. Agents

By Associated Press.

Week's Wash: Dodger pitchers have served up 58 home run balls in 56 games . . . La Didrikson, who shot a 3-under-par 72 in the Western women's open, blew up at Milwaukee the other day and took a nine on one hole.

Hans Vopel and Gustav Kilian, the German six-day bike stars, are indignantly denying they were quizzed by the G-Men.

One Broadway sport got $800 to his $200 today that Galento stops Baer and Armstrong kayos Lew Jenkins.

Atlanta was all set to welcome Jack Dempsey today with a huge street parade . . . Wes Ferrell (remember him?) is playing exhibition golf matches through North Carolina.

Today's Guest Star

Shirley Povich, Washington Post: "Oscar Vitt and his players are simply too nice to each other . . . The bench reeks with hypocrisy and if they are patting each other on the back the suspicion is they are seeking a soft place for what they have in their other hand."

Duke has bagged Ed Schreiber, 18-year-old Charlotte (N. C.) golfer who went to the finals in the southern champions . . . If Eight Thirty wins the Brooklyn Handicap at Aqueduct today he'll pass the $100,000 mark in winnings.

Judge Landis will ask the managers not to pitch their All-Star selections after July 4 so they'll have four days' rest for the big title on July 9 . . . P. O. Dept.: Yes, Sammy Kaye, the band leader, is the same guy who won football, basketball and track letters at Ohio State.

Those up-state reports that the N. B. A. will call it quits turned out to be fairy stories. Col. Harvey Miller, the president, wires the association is more virile and healthier than ever and will continue to push its policy that boxing should be a sport and not a monopolized business.

All right, Colonel, and more power to you . . . Ford Frick may not wait until next the summer meeting of the National League to poll the magnates on the use of helmets . . . Detroit papers say fans out there don't want night ball and they can't understand why owner W. O. Briggs hopped on the bandwagon.

• • •

Mebbe Clark Griffith and Connie Mack can begin rehearsing taking bows . . . They predicted the Yanks would crack this year . . . Now the New York papers are joining in the chorus . . . Today the Post declared: "Yanks haven't got it—won't win pennant—champs washed up, ready to fold."

Vander Meer Goes to Minors For Comeback

CINCINNATI, O., June 29 (INS)—Johnny Vander Meer, who two years ago hurled two successive no-hit, no-run games for the Cincinnati Reds, today was in the minor leagues at his own request.

Vander Meer was optioned to Indianapolis of the American Ass'n on a 24-hour recall basis. Club officials said the move was taken because of Vander Meer's desire to pitch more regularly.

"I realize the only way I can help myself and the club," said Johnny, "is to get better control. The only way is to work hard. As soon as I get four or five good games under my belt I expect to be back."

Overlin Scores Easy Victory

RICHMOND, Va., June 29 (AP)—Ken Overlin, world's middleweight champion in the eyes of New York and California boxing officials, picked up $1250 for a half hour's fighting last night and will earn at least two larger purses in non-title bouts before he lays his title on the line in September.

The former sailor, now 32 and knowing he must cash in fast before age ushers him out of the ring picture, gave Ben Brown, Atlanta, ranked the country's No. 6 middleweight at 22 years of age, a decisive trouncing in a 10-round police show feature before 10,000 fans at the City Stadium. Brown weighed in at 162, Overlin 161.

Overlin's next scrap is with Harry Balsamo in the Queensboro Arena July 9 in a Milk Fund feature.

The following month, he is to battle the winner of a four-man middleweight elimination now being staged in Chicago. He also may find time to sandwich in a return bout with Brown at Atlanta.

Then, in September, he will meet Ceferino Garcia again in a go which will see Overlin's 4-month-old title at stake.

HAVERSTICK 4 UP IN COLLEGE GOLF

MANCHESTER, June 29 (AP)—Although hampered by the wind, Harry Haverstick of Swarthmore put together a scrambling 78, eight over par, to gain a four-hole lead on F. Dixon Brooke of the University of Virginia today at the half-way stage of their 36-hole National Collegiate Golf championship match at Ekwanok.

Brooke, who carded an 82, won but one of the outward holes and appeared hopelessly bogged, five down, when he aroused himself and captured three in a row before going to the 17th tee.

But, with a chance to finish the morning round all square, Brooke fell into another slump and lost the 17th and 18th.

Diamond Gems

1927 was the year that grinning, boyish Charles Lindbergh excited the world with his transatlantic flight in "The Spirit of St. Louis" . . . and in '27 Babe Ruth set the baseball world agog with his record breaking 60 homers . . . the Pirates, physically spent after a gruelling pennant fight, crumbled before New York Yankee power in the World Series . . . Lefty Grove of the A's was the lone pitcher to shut out the Yankees during the season in a 1-0 game on Sept. 3.

WEST CUSHING.

Yale's Crack Hurler Breaks Two Records

NEW YORK, June 29 (AP)—Ted Harrison, Yale's crack sophomore pitcher, broke two all-time Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League records and tied a third during the 1940 season, official records revealed today.

The 14 strikeouts which Harrison marked up against Pennsylvania May 1 surpassed by one the record made by another Yale hurler, Johnny Broaca, in 1932. His season strikeout total of 85 was 10 above Ted Olson's 1935 mark made for Dartmouth. By pitching eight complete games, Harrison tied a league record.

One other record was broken during the season. Pennsylvania completed 15 double plays, three more than the total set by Penn's 1931 team and twice tied.

Record - equalling performances were: Runs batted in, 1 game, 6, by George Polzer, Cornell, vs. Pennsylvania; sacrifice hits, 1 game, 3, by Robert Partridge, Penn, vs. Harvard. Times at bat, 1 game, 7, by Kenneth Brown, Cornell; Fred Keyes, Harvard; Joe Wood, Jr., Yale, and Gill Whittemore, Harvard. Team times at bat, 1 game, 48, by Cornell and Harvard.

Although the Charles H. Blair bat was won by Brooks Jones of Princeton, Cornell gathered almost all the other team and individual slugging honors. The champions also took top rank in pitching as Jim Young and Walt Sickles both went undefeated. Young led in effectiveness with an earned run average of 0.80 in 40 innings; Harrison was second with 1.48 in 76 innings.

Ex-Wing Pilot Under Knife

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 29 (AP)—Estel Crabtree, whose illness forced him to resign as manager of the Red Wings of the International League, was operated upon for removal of the right kidney at a hospital (Genesee) today.

His condition was reported "good."

Crabtree, a native of Nelsonville, Ohio, played with the Cincinnati Reds and St. Louis Cardinals in the National League before joining Rochester seven years ago.

He was appointed Rochester manager three weeks ago, but held the job only a few days when stricken.

Dixie Hill Pontiac, Dorchester

It's a fact—no sooner do the bright-and-shiny new models come into the market than a crop of excellent used-car values starts coming in, too. People who can't resist buying the very newest models are the people who often bring in last year's (or the year's before) models in almost good as-new condition. If you're looking for tops in used-car value, their good luck is yours. This is the time—and the Record-American and Sunday Advertiser Automobile for Sale Columns is the place to find these values.

WHAT IS SO RARE AS A SUNNY DAY IN THIS JUNE?

PAUSE THAT REFRESHES—Helen Mitchell, Newton Center, sips the cooling draught at Longwood.

CUTEST YET—What could be prettier than a couple of adolescents like Judy Mitchell (look at those eyes!), Waban, and Betty Howe, Weston, lolling on the Longwood greensward between matches? Thinks Judy: "I can lick the stuffing out of her." Betty is daughter of famous old Yale quarterback. She lost to Dorothy W. Wightman in semi-finals, 9—7, 6—0.

SKY HIGH—Norma Meister, younger girls' repeating titlist, reaches for high one during match with Lonnie Myers

"COME DOWN HERE"—Virginia Marston, Newton Center's future glamour girl, reaches for high hard one during match at Longwood. Play was on in full swing today, hoping to make up time for Tuesday and Wednesday's rain.

Top-ranking Bud Hart of Miami, Fla., was to meet Bruce Daniels of Worcester, sixth seeded, while Walter Driver of El Paso, Tex., took on second seeded Fred Krais, Jr., of Pelham Manor, N. Y., in the semi-finals of the junior boys' singles division of the Massachusetts state junior tennis championships shifted from the Longwood Cricket Club to the Country Club today.

Hart was forced to the limit in making the semi-finals by a local boy, Phil Scanlon, captain of this year's Newton High School tennis team. The Newton boy made a stirring comeback after losing a 7—5 first set and captured the second, 6—4. He tired in the final set from the gruelling play and bowed out, 6—3.

Krais will be going into today's round well freshened, as he extended himself just enough to coast to a straight set triumph over Ernest Johnson of Newton, 6—2 and 6—1.

Another top-ranking star was forced all the way before winning when little 15-year-old Norma Meister of Sharon, younger grils' champion, extended Caroline "Lonny" Myers of Hartford, Ct., defending champion of the junior girls' division, in the semi-finals.

Rural Rube Runs At Beach Tonight

Mr. Dog himself, Rural Rube, will match strides with seven other high class greyhounds in the ninth and featured event, the North Shore Trophy, at Wonderland Park, Revere, tonight.

Bud Carroll's champion will step a 5-16th of a mile route, and is very partial to that distance. In his only local start of the current meeting. The Rube broke very slowly only to come along in the late stages and score an easy triumph.

The main contention should come from Suwanee, who has managed to conquer the Wonderland wonder-dog on a couple of occasions. It all depends upon whether or not the Rube can avoid early interference to run his list to two straight.

A longshot possibility in the race is Reliant. Nobody knows exactly how good this hound it, having yet to taste defeat and performing in impressive style throughout his schooling and competitive racing.

Zontini, Irish Ace, Signs With Rams

CLEVELAND, June 29 (AP)—Lou Zontini, former Notre Dame right halfback, and Morrie Kohler, who played halfback for Oregon State last season, have signed contracts with the Cleveland Rams of the National Professional Football League, business manager Mannie Elsner of the Rams said today.

Zontini will complete his studies at Notre Dame this summer.

Radcliff, Finney Tie For Honors

NEW YORK, June 29 (AP)—The battle for hitting honors in the American League has developed into as red hot a race as the championship struggle itself.

Today Lou Finney of the Boston Red Sox and Rip Radcliff of the St. Louis Browns were deadlocked for the lead at .363, and Barney McCosky of Detroit was only 11 points behind. The skirmishing was nearly as close all down the line and there was even a tie for 10th place at the high level of .323.

The National League, however, settled into a one-man show by Catcher Hank Danning of the New York Giants. He finished strong with seven hits in his last two games to increase his percentage to .375 and take a 31-point lead over the No. 2 batter, Dixie Walker of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The 10 leaders in each league are:

Tuss McLaughry Names Own Son To All-Star Team

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 29 (AP)—Tuss McLaughry of Brown, head coach of the 1940 eastern All-Star football team which will play the New York Giants in the annual Fresh Air Fund game at New York Sept. 4, today announced the first two players to join the All-Stars.

They are John McLaughry, the coach's son, and Spencer Manroot of Brown. They are the first Brown players ever to make the eastern All-Star squad. John McLaughry, a 210-pound back, was rated one of the east's best blockers and tacklers last fall. Manroot is a running guard.

Swifty SAYS:

"There's no rest for the weary. They've got me up against Rural Rube again tonight, and there's Suwanee and Laddy's Honor in the same race, too.

"Well, I've changed my oil, and as usual you can expect the best from me.

"Confidentially, I'll win it again."

Little Ducks Charity Match With Sarazen

NEW YORK, June 29 (AP)—Gene Sarazen, who will captain a picked team of professional golfers against the Ryder Cup team in a Red Cross benefit match at Detroit July 16 and 17, said today that Open Champion Lawson Little had declined an invitation to play on his side.

He said Little already had contracted to play a considerable number of charity exhibitions and felt he needed to devote some time to his own business. A half-dozen players have volunteered to take Little's place, Sarazen said.

Ex-Manager Of Gotch Dies

CHICAGO, June 29 (AP)—Funeral services for Emil Klank, last of the old time managers of wrestlers, will be held here Monday.

Klank, in ill health for years, died in Hot Springs, Ark., Thursday. He managed Frank Gotch at the time the world heavyweight champion defeated George Hackenschmidt, the Russian Lion, in Chicago in 1911.

Heroes and Goats

By International News Service

HEROES — Charley Gelbert, Washington infielder, who drove in three runs, including the winning tally, as the Senators whipped the Boston Red Sox; Babe Phelps, Brooklyn catcher, whose two doubles played the major role in the Dodgers triumph over the Boston Bees.

GOATS—Dick Seibert, Philadelphia first baseman, whose error led to the N. Y. Yanks' victory over the A's; Joe Heving, Boston Red Sox pitcher, who failed to check the lowly Washington Senators in a relief chore.

Topsfield Races Draw East's Top Auto Drivers

Leading drivers of the East will be on hand to compete in the big car auto races, sanctioned by the Eastern States Auto Racing Association, which will be held at the Topsfield Fair Grounds on Route 1 on July 4.

Among the entries received is that Dizzy Vance, one of the leading contenders for the New England championship. Dizzy has been showing the other drivers the short way around the tracks and hopes to keep up his winning streak.

The time trials will start at 12:30 p. m. and the first race at 2:30 p. m.
